Kelly hits the foam in Miami!

WORD IS that our Kelly was in Miami to shoot a lingerie campaign (Ann Summers, maybe?), but it was her beachwear that, unsurprisingly, became the focus of attention, as she hit the surf in a hard-working stripy bikini.

This two-piece by Vix, their website tells us, comes with 24-carat gold plated logo sliding tubes and removable padding. One spurious element of which, we're fairly sure, ended up on the hotel room floor pretty sharpish, alongside the discarded packaging.

PLUMBER!

Plumber surfs world's biggest wave!

Cornish loon makes most of mad weather!

THAT CHAP on the Jetski on the left is Garrett McNamara. He's been in Nuts before. In November 2011, he rode the world's biggest wave off the coast of Navaré, Portugal, a 78ft monster. And he was towed onto that wave by his chum Andrew Cotton, 34, a Devon plumber.

Andrew, obviously, is the man in the middle of this picture, surfing a possibly bigger break last week. They spent four hours in the water, and surfed one wave apiece. Possibly also breaking the world's pruniest fingers record at the same time.

‘It’s probably quite safe!’

Nuts* grabs surfing mentalist Andrew Cotton for a chat!

Hi Andrew! That’s some picture, there. Is it the world’s biggest ever surfed wave?
Well that’s what people are saying. Who knows? I think if it looks bigger, then it’s bigger! We’ll find out for sure in May!

What does it feel like to surf a wave that big?
It’s amazing! That’s why I do it, and that’s why I do it over and over again. It’s why I’ve devoted my life to doing it. Every wave’s different. People have asked me, is this it, then? You’ve surfed the biggest wave ever. But it’s so unlike, for instance, a mountain climber.
A climber can climb the biggest mountain ever, and then it’s done. He’s done it. But surfing’s not like that. There aren’t any larger mountains coming along any time soon! You never know. There’s a massive storm coming this weekend. And I might ride a bigger wave. That’s really exciting, and it keeps you on your toes. You’ve always got to be on it. You’ve always got to be fit, be focussed. The possibilities of the unknown, that’s exciting!

Did you have time to enjoy it, or are you so “in the moment” that you can’t?
Yeah, I enjoy every second I’m riding a wave. Every second I’m surfing and I’m in those situations, I’ve got to be thankful for. I feel really lucky. I love it, you know.

Are you brave, or foolish?
I don’t think it’s either. I don’t see myself as brave. It’s just calculated risks. For instance, I’m quite a keen cyclist and some of my mates hammer down hills at, like, God knows what speed, with Lycra on! And I think that’s pretty foolish, right? What if you fall off? I’m always the slowest down the hills. Always the slowest. I could get really hurt!
I can’t think of anything worse than falling off your bike dressed in Lycra!
Not only is it going to be embarrassing, but it’s going to really hurt. But my mates are comfortable doing that, they’re happy to do it.

In real terms, how dangerous is surfing waves this size?
Well, I think if you look at the statistics, it’s probably quite safe. People do drown, but not that many, really! It’s relatively safe. I’ve got a young family, and I would never put myself in unnecessary risk for a photo, or for anything. I’ve got nothing to prove to anyone. No big, headline sponsor backing me, telling me I’ve got to do this, to get my money, I’m just doing it for love. Because it makes me happy.

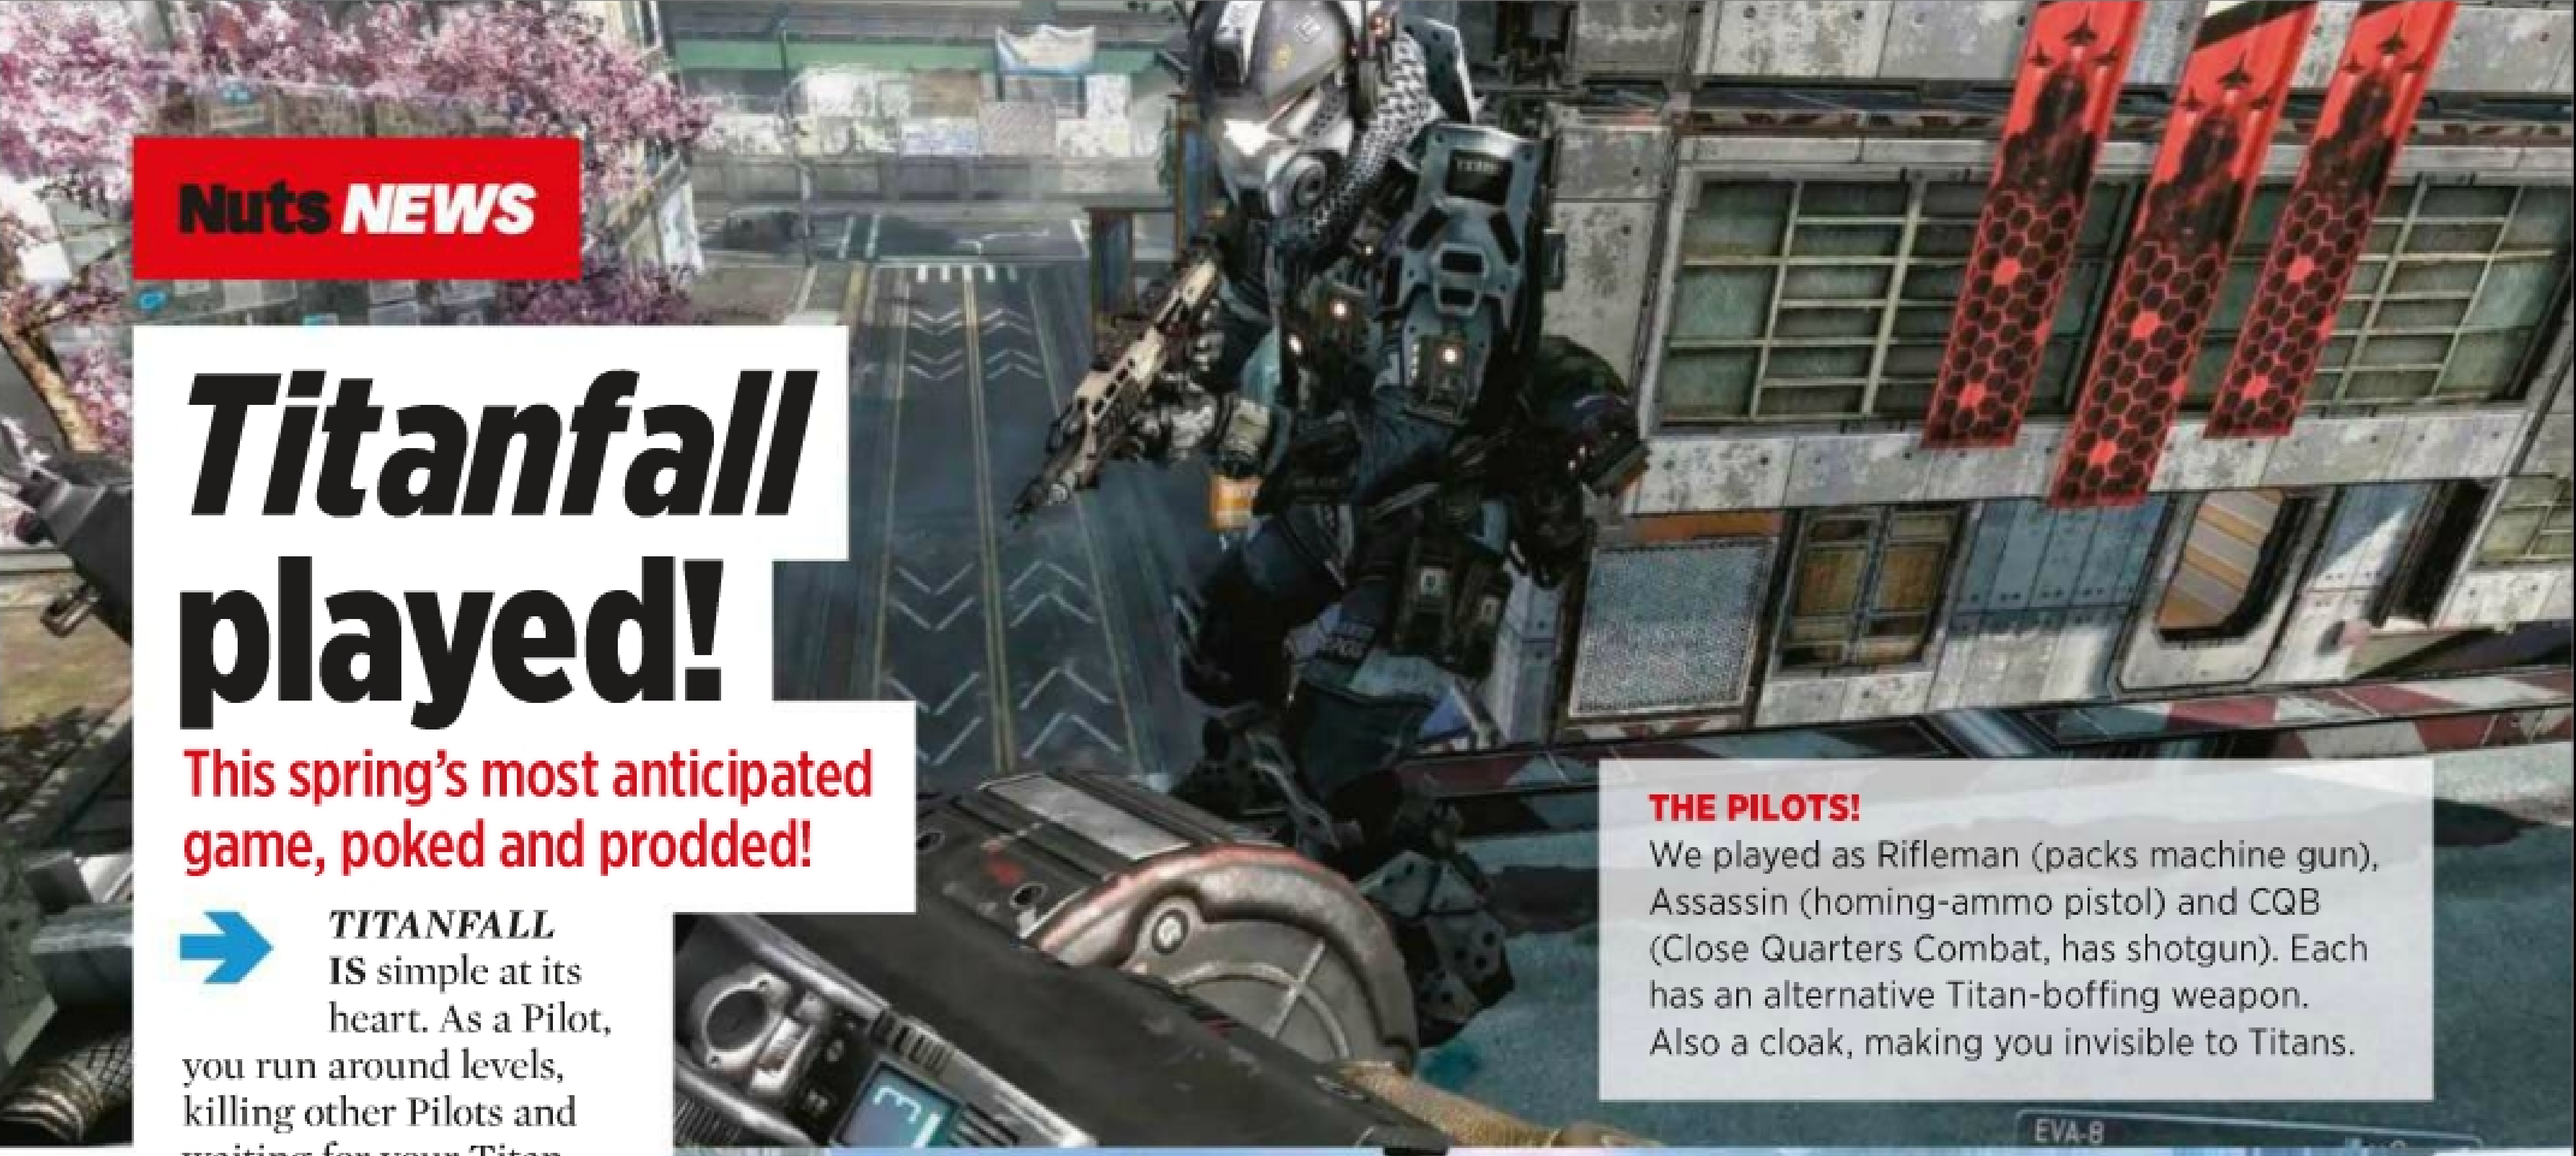
How do they work out the size of the wave?
That’s decided by the judges at the Billabong XXL committee, who use the top guys to measure that wave. They look at photos and video footage, and work it out. They are the official, Guinness adjudicators.

Would you be fussed if it wasn’t the world’s biggest?
I’m not going to lie, it’s great for the media! OK, yeah, I am, I want to surf big waves. That’s my mission, to surf big waves, regularly.

Titanfall played!

This spring's most anticipated game, poked and prodded!

TITANFALL IS simple at its heart. As a Pilot, you run around levels, killing other Pilots and waiting for your Titan to be delivered. Climb in your house-high mech and Pilots look like ants down the sights of your huge gun. But the devil's in the detail, as this is the most perfectly balanced game we've played in a dog's age. It's a Microsoft exclusive, so drops on PC, Xbox 360 and Xbox One on 13 March.

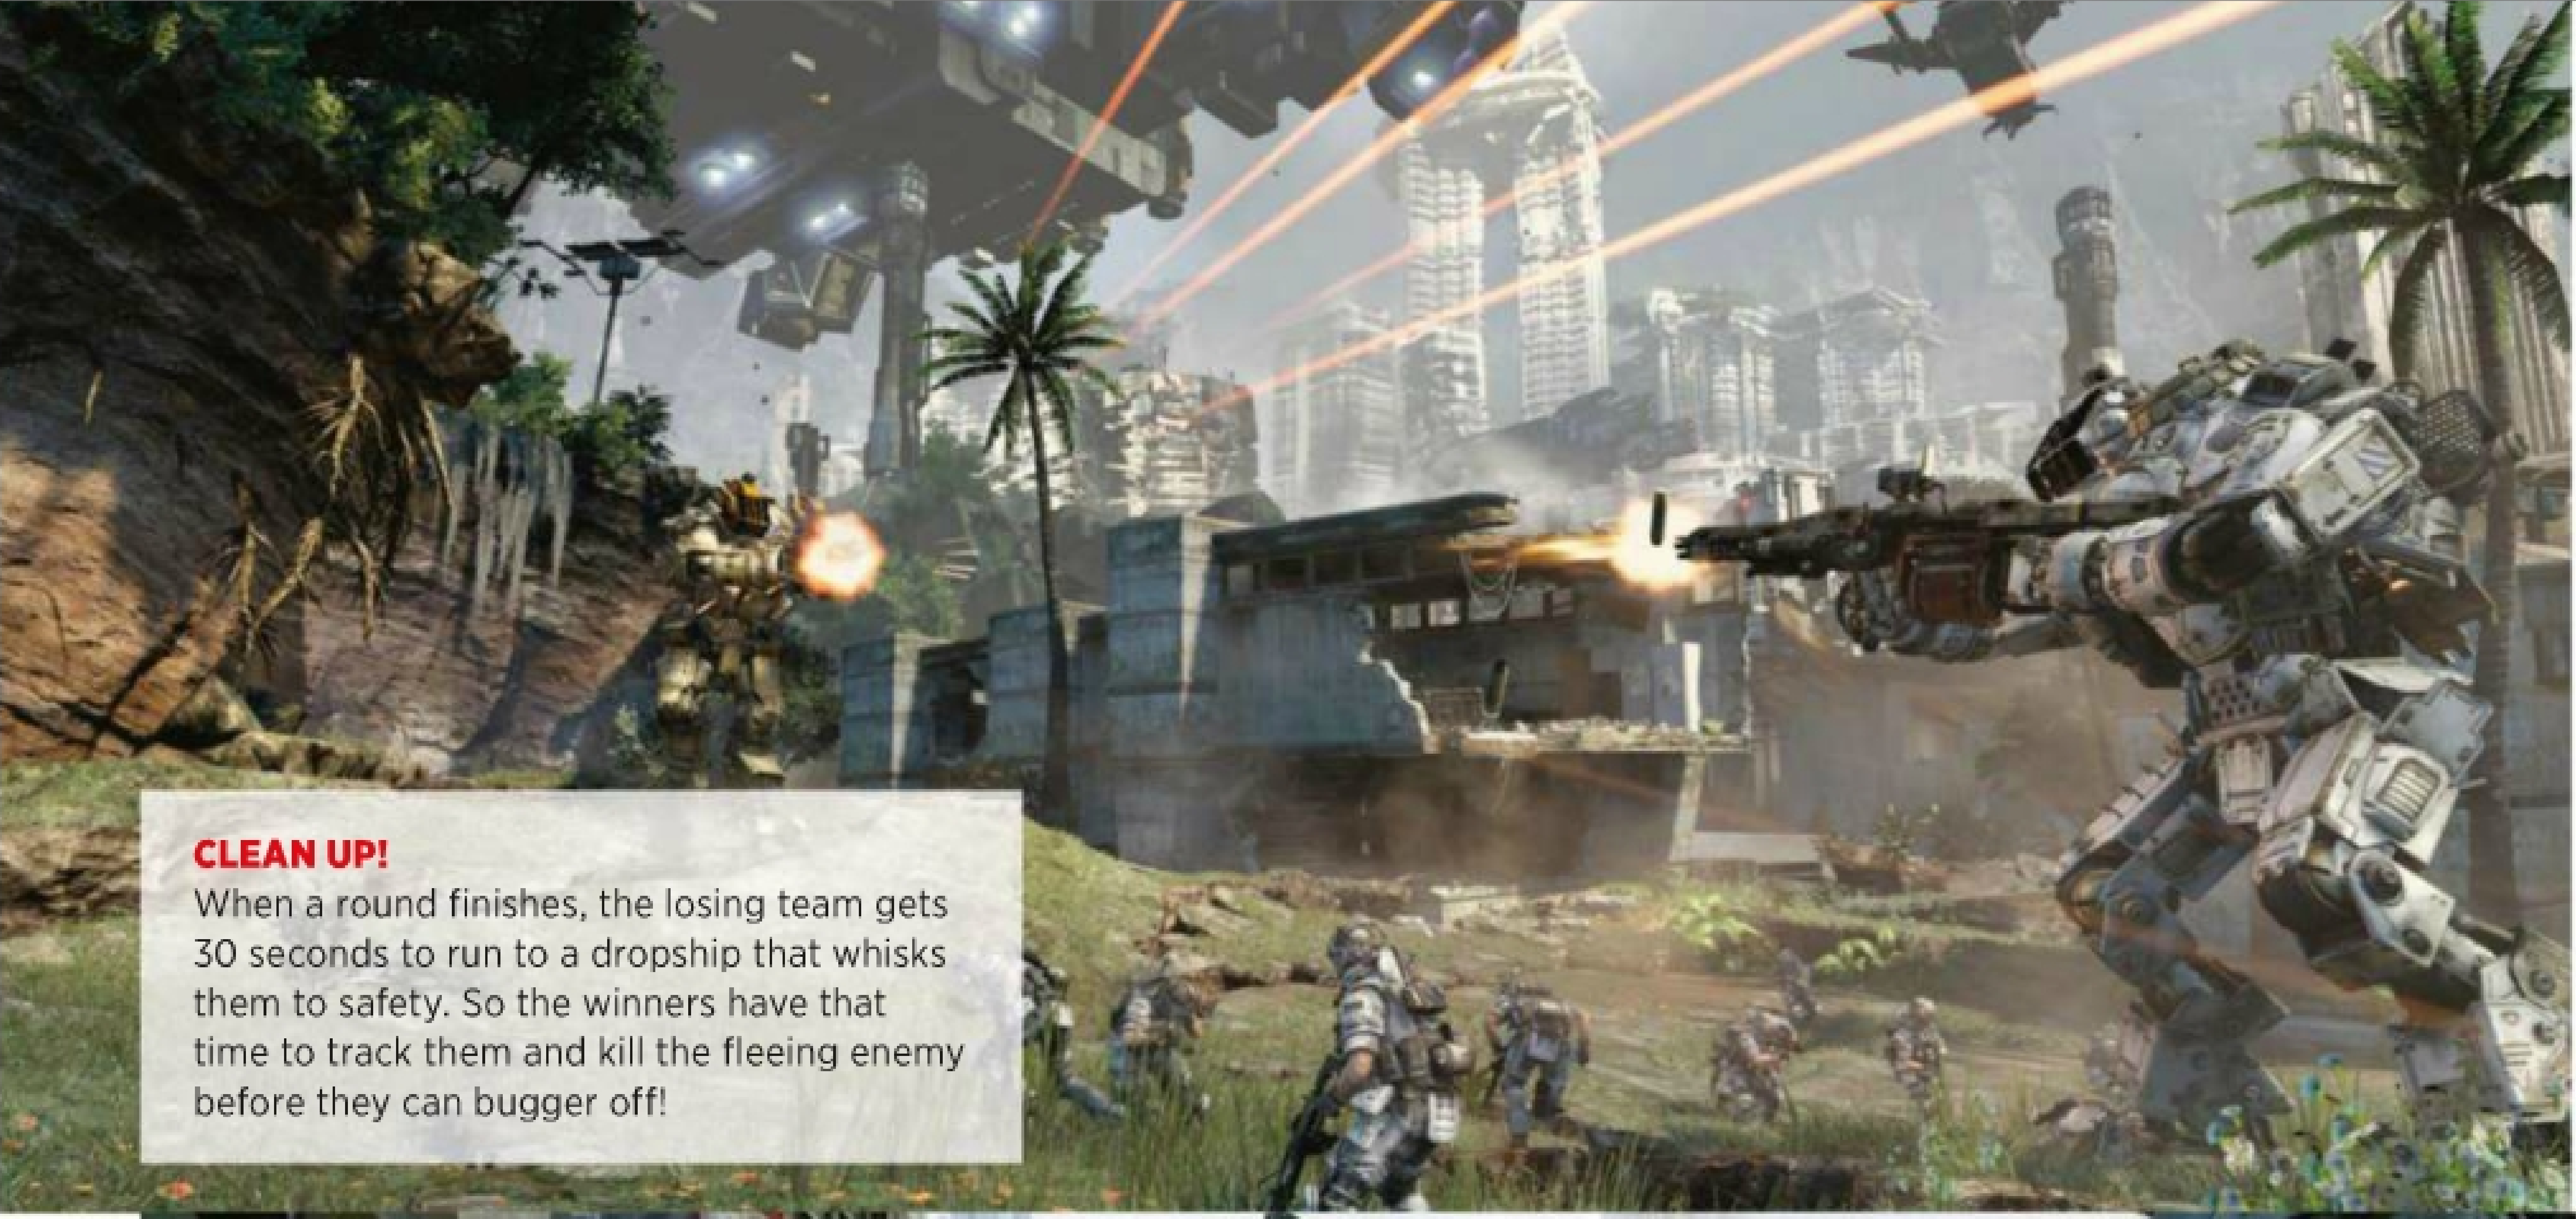


THE PILOTS!
We played as Rifleman (packs machine gun), Assassin (homing-ammo pistol) and CQB (Close Quarters Combat, has shotgun). Each has an alternative Titan-boffing weapon. Also a cloak, making you invisible to Titans.

THE TITANS!
Assault, Tank and Artillery Titans were up for grabs. They're essentially the same, with different primary weapons. All have a shield that sucks up enemy bullets before flinging them back, and a dodge, to avoid missiles.

TITANS COFFEE

GAME MODES!
Attrition is your standard 6 vs 6 deathmatch, in Hardpoint you capture and control three waypoints, while Last Titan Standing does what it says on the tin. But all of them are wonderful, gleeful pandemonium!



CLEAN UP!
When a round finishes, the losing team gets 30 seconds to run to a dropship that whisks them to safety. So the winners have that time to track them and kill the fleeing enemy before they can bugger off!

Few games will nail a grin across your face so quickly and plaster it there for so long. Gameplay is nuanced and pitch perfectly balanced. Got an Xbox? Get this. Got a PlayStation? Get an Xbox and get this.

New Bill Bailey funnies!

The beardy hair explosion on UKIP, Skype and shark diving!

PHOTOS: REX FEATURES, SHUTTERSTOCK

On his biography!

"A desultory half-applause is better than a baffled indifference. That's the title of my autobiography right there!"

On politics!

"You've surely not missed the UKIP politician announcing that the cold weather is God's punishment against gay marriage? Just when you thought that UKIP were becoming the less comedy party. They're like a comedy sketch club – four sozzled berks from the golf club. [Does posh voice] 'Hello, we're UKIP. Policies? OK. Electrified fence at Dover and no women in the bar area. There we are!'"

On the BBC!

"Did the Radio 1 DJs manage to grope the whole '70s? The Malvern Hills, Stonehenge, floors, skies, abstract concepts, the oil crisis, Wombles, anything?"

On Nigella Lawson!

"People have affected surprise at Nigella's cocaine addiction. But this was clear to me the night I was watching Nigella's Kitchen. We all watch cookery programmes out of some sort of idle pornographic interest, sitting there in your pants eating a Pot Noodle, 'Yeah, looks great, knock yourself out.' Anyway. I clearly remember her chopping up a radish with a credit card."

On farmers!

"A lot of the storms, caused by God's retribution, were in Devon and Cornwall. This has made a lot of sexually confused West Country farmers even more confused. There are blokes on tractors going, [does West Country accent] 'It's raining. Am I gay?' 'Red sky at night, you're gay.' God's sending mixed messages. Or is God saying, 'I'm OK with the gays, and I'm helping the farmers as well'?"

On dog sledding!

"My knuckles were as white as a UKIP toga party!"

On One Direction!

"They are the luckiest sods on the planet, aren't they? Five unremarkable halfwits from Wetherspoon's catapulted into global stardom. I went to see them. It's not my kind of thing. Metal's more my kind of thing. In fact, any rhythmical tapping. I'll qualify that, any rhythmical or arhythmical tapping caused by anything organic or non-organic is more my sort of thing. The annoying arhythmical tapping of jean buttons inside a tumble drier is more my sort of thing."

On the Chuckle Brothers!

"Imagine being groped by The Chuckle Brothers. 'From me, to you.'"

On the recession!

"I was in Cape Town and I saw a sign saying, 'Cut-price shark diving.' It's not the sort of thing I want to skimp on. I don't want the cheap shark safety package, where they lower you down in a wheelie bin with a shopping trolley on your head and there's a big burly South African going, [does South African accent] 'If the shark comes near, hit it with this golf club. Just hit it in the eye with this putter and the shark will become disorientated. Or it might become enraged.' I didn't do it, but it gave me an idea for a new wildlife/golfing programme. 'Hi, I'm Bill Bailey, high in the Hindu Kush. And these rare voles need to get from one side of the valley to the other.'"

On massage!

"I had an acupressure massage. This is where people push very bony bits of their thumbs into very painful parts of your back and you go away a broken man. When I go, they put my hair in a net before they cover me with oil. I feel like I'm going to the dog groomer's!"

On Skyping his dad!

"I don't know if you've ever tried to Skype your parents. I tried Skyping my dad. That didn't end well. He's a little bit deaf, my dad. 'Hello?' 'Yes, we're on now.' 'Is this on?' 'Yes.' 'I can't see you.' 'No, cos you haven't got the video setting turned on.' 'Hello?' 'Dad, turn the video setting on.' 'Hello?' 'I'm going to phone you on the land line and talk you through how to turn the video on.' 'Hang on. I've got to go. There's someone on the phone.'"

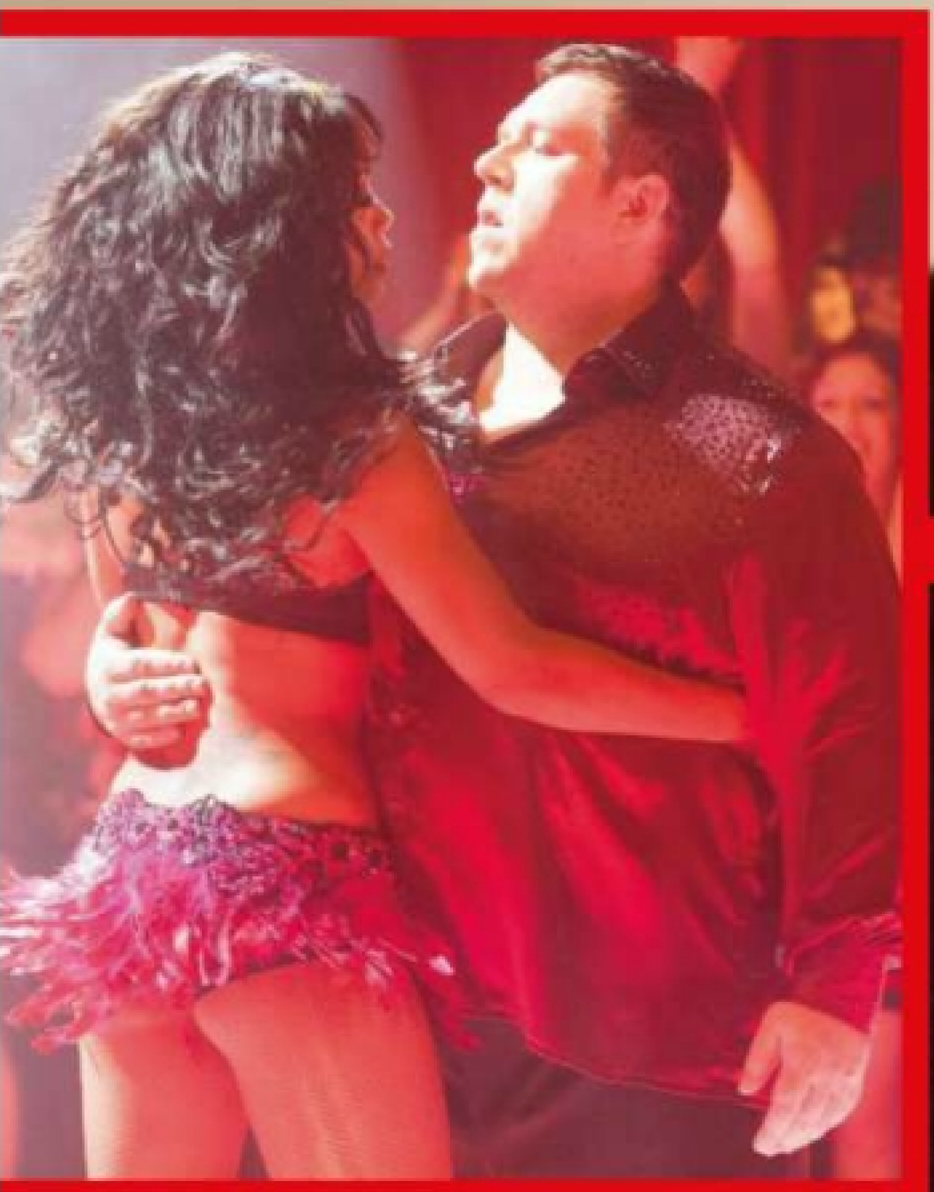
On love songs!

"When you left me, I didn't want you to see me cry.
So I injected battery acid into my eye.
I hope my pain, my terrible pain, and my subsequent blindness, will deter you from any further acts of unkindness.
I will follow you everywhere that you go.
I'll be watching you at your workplace through my one working eye.
One day soon, we're going to die.
And we can look like an accident, a double suicide.
There's no way we'll survive as our truck plunges into the quarry.
Then I'll ignore you in Heaven, then you'll be sorry."

● Bill tours later in the year. See billbailey.co.uk

On space!

"Stephen Hawking recently announced that there are no black holes. All these years I've had this unspoken fear about falling into a black hole. If you fall into a black hole, you get stretched out until you're as thin as a piece of spaghetti, then you're crushed by the ultimate density. Apparently, that doesn't exist any more. Instead, there's a thing called a firewall, which is an actual wall of fire. So if you fall down one of them, you're instantly incinerated. So I feel much better now."



"That bloke there. He's a bloody legend!"

A quick word with Nick Frost!

The chubby comic on dancing, cooking and bum tsunamis!

Hi Nick! Your new movie Cuban Fury is all about salsa dancing. Why should Nuts readers take a lady to see your new film on Valentine's Day?
I think this film is the greatest thing to combat a cold winter night since Heinz tomato soup and a toastie.

Out of all the available dance styles, why salsa?
I worked at a Mexican restaurant when I was younger and the management would send hundreds of hours of salsa music for us to play on a constant loop while we served really angry businessman really mediocre burgers. I was kind of terrified and hated it, so it felt like the thing I wanted to conquer the most was my hatred of salsa.

Had you ever done any dancing before?
No. My dance history was head banging, because I was a heavy metal kid. Then I loved the Happy Mondays, so there was lots of Bezzing going on. Then I was a raver, which is just a one or two fist-pump combo. I trained with a lady called Yanet Fuentes who has bum-doubled for Shakira. She did this movement where she could move her bum on six different planes. We called it the tsunami because a) you couldn't get out of the way of it, and b) it was so compelling, you just knew it was going to hit you. Having to hold another woman was really weird. I can feel myself becoming slightly Hugh Granted now, thinking about it. [Does impression of Hugh Grant] "I put my hand here and, good lord, I'm so sorry."

Was there any point you decided dancing was too hard and tried to wriggle out of it?
When you make a movie, wheels are in motion, there are budgets, so I couldn't really say, "Can we not do it? Can it be about a man eating a big wedding cake? I'll do seven months' training for that." I probably wouldn't need seven months' training for that. The training for Cuban Fury was six hours a day, five days a week for seven months. All I did was dance. I hope you enjoy Cuban Fury because we worked really hard on it. Ha-ha! I just said hard-on.

Blimey. Did you suffer any dancing injuries?
The worst was my feet went numb. The last three toes on my left and three toes on my right. Apparently, if you dance, you don't feel your feet any more, which is weird.

Thanks, Nick! Finally, is there anything else you like doing?
I was a cook before I was an actor. I'm going to sound like a loony, but cooking's probably the only thing I do that silences the voices. People have it with gardening and golf, but I don't think about anything other than cooking when I'm cooking. Normally, my head's like someone has kicked a hornet's nest at a wall.

● Cuban Fury is in cinemas from 14 February.

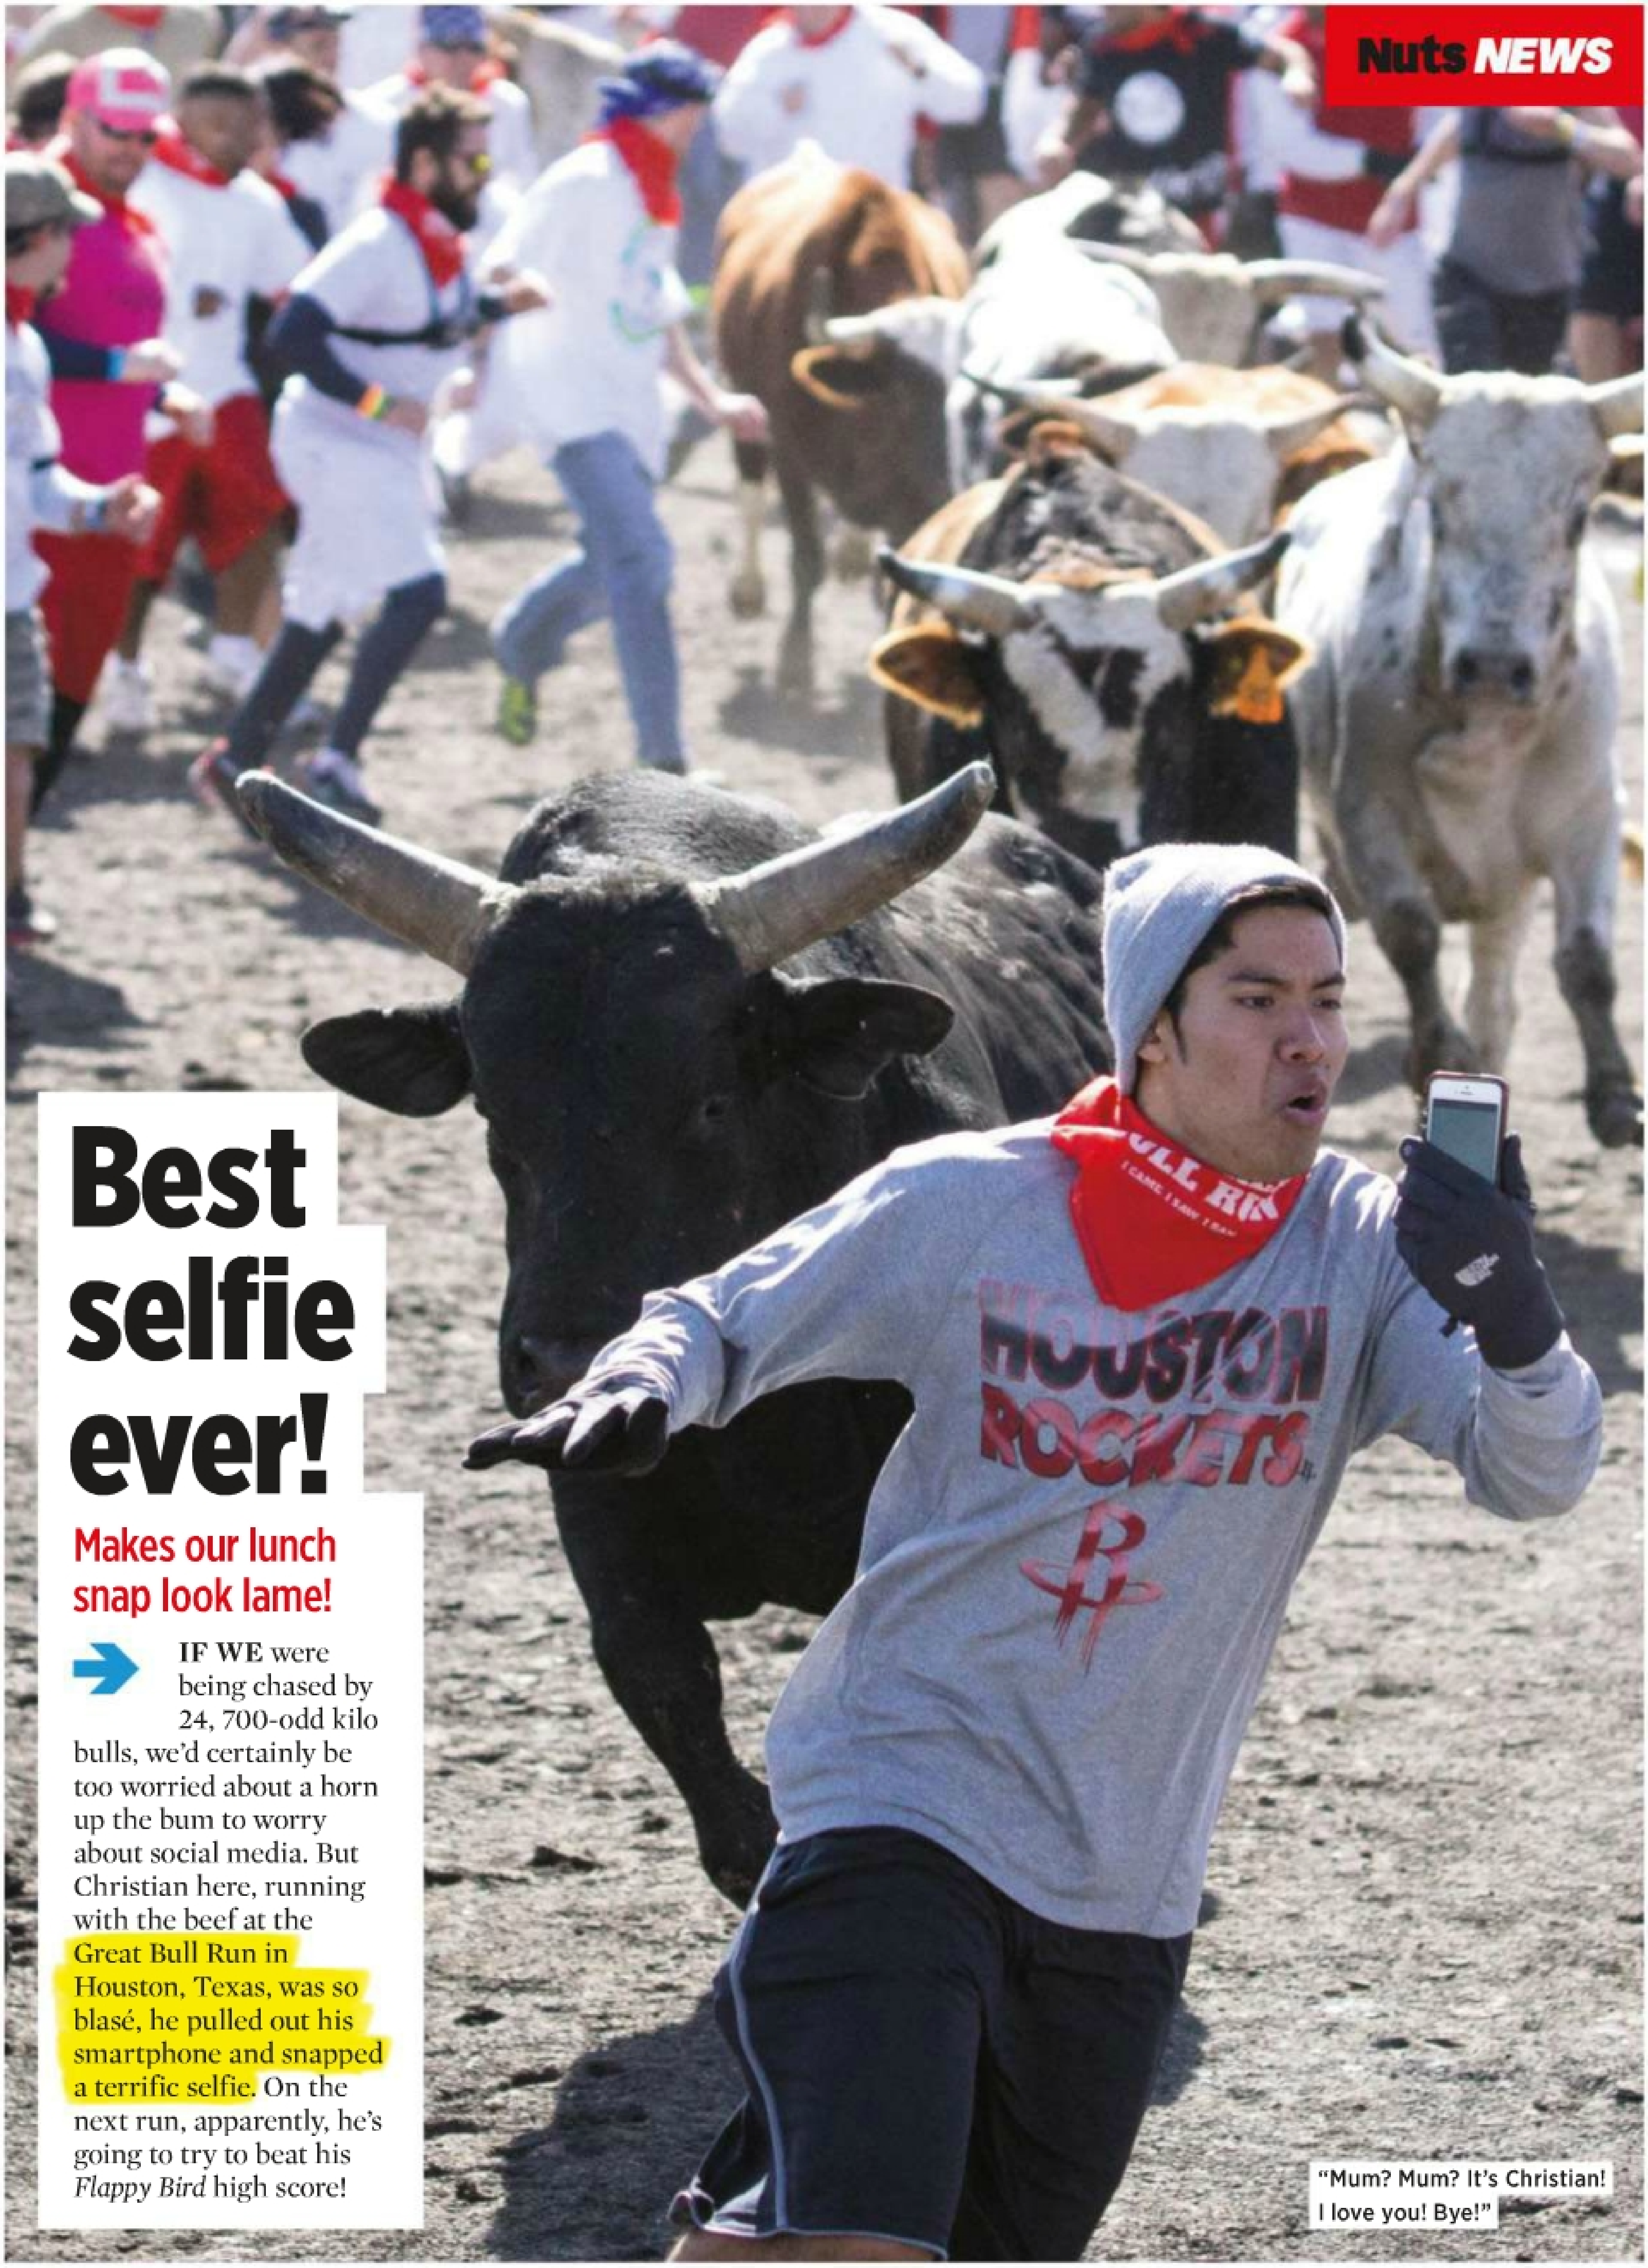
IT'S FOOT-SHUFFLING FROST! In the film, Nick plays a former salsa ace who attempts a comeback.



"Mum? Mum? It's Christian! I love you! Bye!"

Best selfie ever!

Makes our lunch snap look lame!

IF WE were being chased by 24, 700-odd kilo bulls, we'd certainly be too worried about a horn up the bum to worry about social media. But Christian here, running with the beef at the Great Bull Run in Houston, Texas, was so blasé, he pulled out his smartphone and snapped a terrific selfie. On the next run, apparently, he's going to try to beat his Flappy Bird high score!

Canadian supercar!

This angular beauty from Canada, the Felino CB7, has Corvette's new Stingray in its sights!

- Four years in the making, and from the wintry wilds of Canada this, the Felino CB7, is the Canuck answer to Britain's Morgan AeroMax. With a throbbing, natural breathing V8 motor up front and a flowing Beetle-back at the rear, it's a ground-up purpose-built two-seat sports car designed for track use, but, in Felino's words, "potentially street legal".
- The CB7 boasts the magical 50/50 weight distribution and, at 4,191mm long and 1,930mm wide, is broader than Ferrari's California and some 60cm shorter than a Lambo Aventador.
- It's light, too. Very light. 1,135kg. That's thanks to cast aluminium suspension parts and a body made of either carbon or composite panels. Even the dashboard's carbon fibre.
- It has the face of an angry robot, and front wheel arches swelling well proud of the nostril-littered bonnet. Unusually for a sports car, the door windows are large, and the doors themselves sweep up into the broad dominating rear arches. At the back, there's a long split rear window and tapered tail into which the rear LED lights, integral spoiler and protruding diffuser all pout.
- As standard, the Felino features a moulded-carbon driver's seat, six-point safety harnesses, removable steering wheel and on-board data acquisition hardware. It also comes with side and rear view cameras.
- Performance stats are as yet undisclosed, but we're sure this will be a mid three-second to 62 chariot. Why?
- Well, the new shape Corvette C7 Stingray weighs 1,499kg, and with 454bhp, the base model will get to 62 in 4.2 secs and up to 195mph. We're willing to bet the Felino uses a similar 6.2-litre V8, together with its six-speed manual cog box. Don't forget, the CB7 has more power (525bhp) and less flab (1,135kg), see?

We took some readers! We took a Lucy Collett! We played some CoD!

➔ DON'T SAY we don't know how to throw a party! With some help from our chums at Activision, we bagged a venue: London's cool Shoreditch Butchery and filled it with networked Xbox Ones, flatscreen TVs, our very own Girl Got Game, Lucy Collett, and eight competition-winning Nuts readers to deathmatch it up for an afternoon of incredible Call Of Duty fun!

After taking on Lucy on a few rounds of Onslaught, Domino's were shipped in for eats, a few sly beers were supped and the two winners: Craig Walker from Surrey and Adrian Mitchell from London and their crew of three trigger-happy wingmen stepped up to the plate for a prize-blagging tournament.

Some frenzied action and a fair bit of banter later, Craig's CoD skills were too strong for Adrian, and he bagged the loot: a flatscreen TV, Xbox One, Call Of Duty Ghosts and a season pass for all the downloadable content.

Then all that was left was a swift trip to Byron Burger in Shoreditch for a bite, chilling with Lucy and we chucked our tuckered out boys in cabs home. Tired, but happy, bless their cotton socks.

TEAM CRAIG!
This is Craig Walker from Surrey, and his trigger-happy mates...

TEAM ADRIAN!
... Going up against Adrian Mitchell from London, and his troops.

BOOZE ON TAP!
Nuts ensured the lads were kept well lubricated throughout.

SPOT THE GHOST!
Look carefully, behind that chap. You can just about see our Lucy.

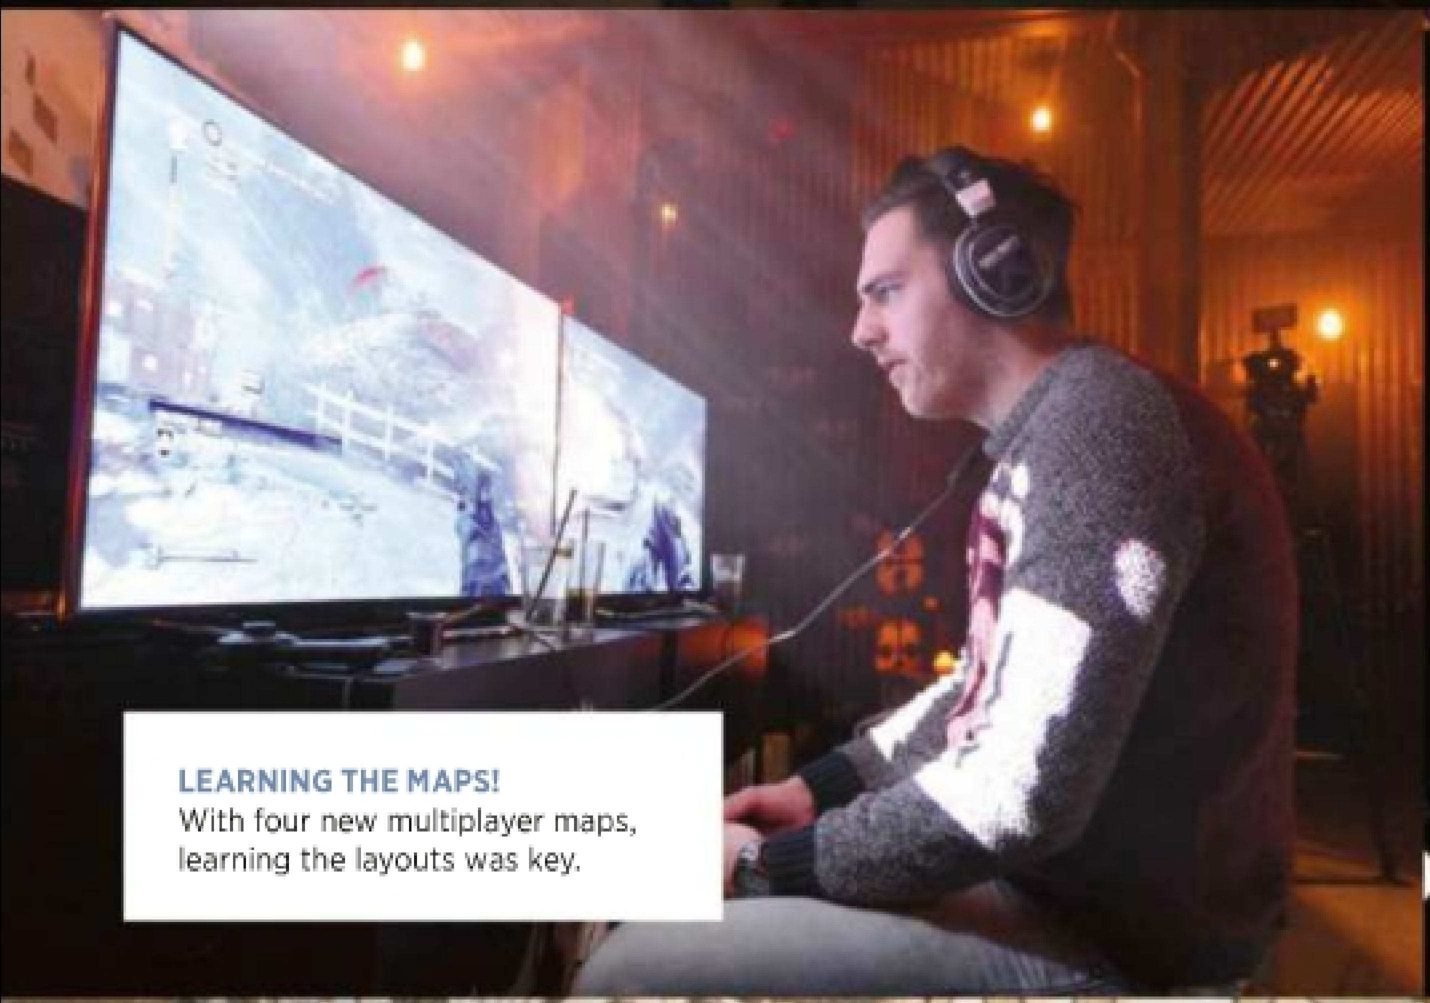
THE FINAL BATTLE!
Craig finished victorious in the final battle, winning the gear.

GIRL GOT GAME!
Corporal Collett was never far from the firing range.

TARGET PRACTICE!
Plenty of time was scheduled with Onslaught and its all-new maps.

FIELD RATIONS!
A tower of Domino's pizzas kept our troops in high morale.

MORAL SUPPORT!
Lucy offered a shoulder to cry on when brains were blown out.



LEARNING THE MAPS!
With four new multiplayer maps, learning the layouts was key.

Nuts NEXT TOP MODEL!

ONLY IN Nuts!

Introducing the hottest new models – in their first ever Nuts shoot!

Libby

Bravo for this breathtaking brunette babe from Brum!

➔ Hey Libby! How did you enjoy your first ever Nuts shoot?
Hello! It's been fantastic, thanks. It's been a great excuse to get the bikini out for a bit in winter. I'm hoping it'll bring a touch of summer cheer to the cold months.

Can you introduce yourself to us… like where are you from, and what's your day job?
Well, I'm 21, I work as a PA and I live in Birmingham. It's a cool city, and it's great if you love shopping 'cos we've got the Bullring shopping centre.

You don't have a 'full-on' Brummie accent.
Ha-ha! I think that's a very good thing. I hate to say it, but it's probably the least sexy accent in the country. I think a Liverpool or Geordie accent sounds best on a girl.

What about on a bloke? Whose tones drive you wild?
Oh, definitely a good Cockney accent. I love a bit of a cheeky chap vibe.

So if Danny Dyer asked you out for a "pwopa nawty dwink", you'd go weak at the knees?
Ha-ha! I'd definitely consider it… but he's a bit of a chump, isn't he? And he swears too much. That's not a good quality in a bloke.

Fair enough! What's your favourite thing about Nuts?
Well, I think it has to be all these beautiful girls with massive boobs! I absolutely love Lucy Pinder. She's so hot, I'd love to do a shoot with her.

Is it right that you're actually allergic to nuts?
Yes. I love Nuts – but for god's sake don't give me any actual ones or my lips will go all mental. No peanuts for me!

If we gave you a million quid and told you that you could do any shoot in the world…
I'd probably go to Barbados – and there'd be dolphins. Lucy Pinder would definitely be there, but I'd have Joey Fisher along, too. She's ace.

So what will we find you doing when you're not modelling?
I like going out with my mates a lot and I'm a massive shopper. Also, this is a bit weird, but I'm proper obsessed with murder documentaries. Some of the stories and cases you read about are just really captivating and shocking.

Murder? Blimey! We bet you've plotted your perfect crime…
Yes. The perfect murder would be with an ice spear, as the weapon would melt afterwards, leaving no evidence.

Thanks for the chat, Libby. Finally then, what's the key to the perfect selfie?
I don't have a secret. I just say, "Always get your boobs in!"

INTERVIEW: SI CUNNINGHAM.

THE AMAZING UNBREAKABLE MAN!

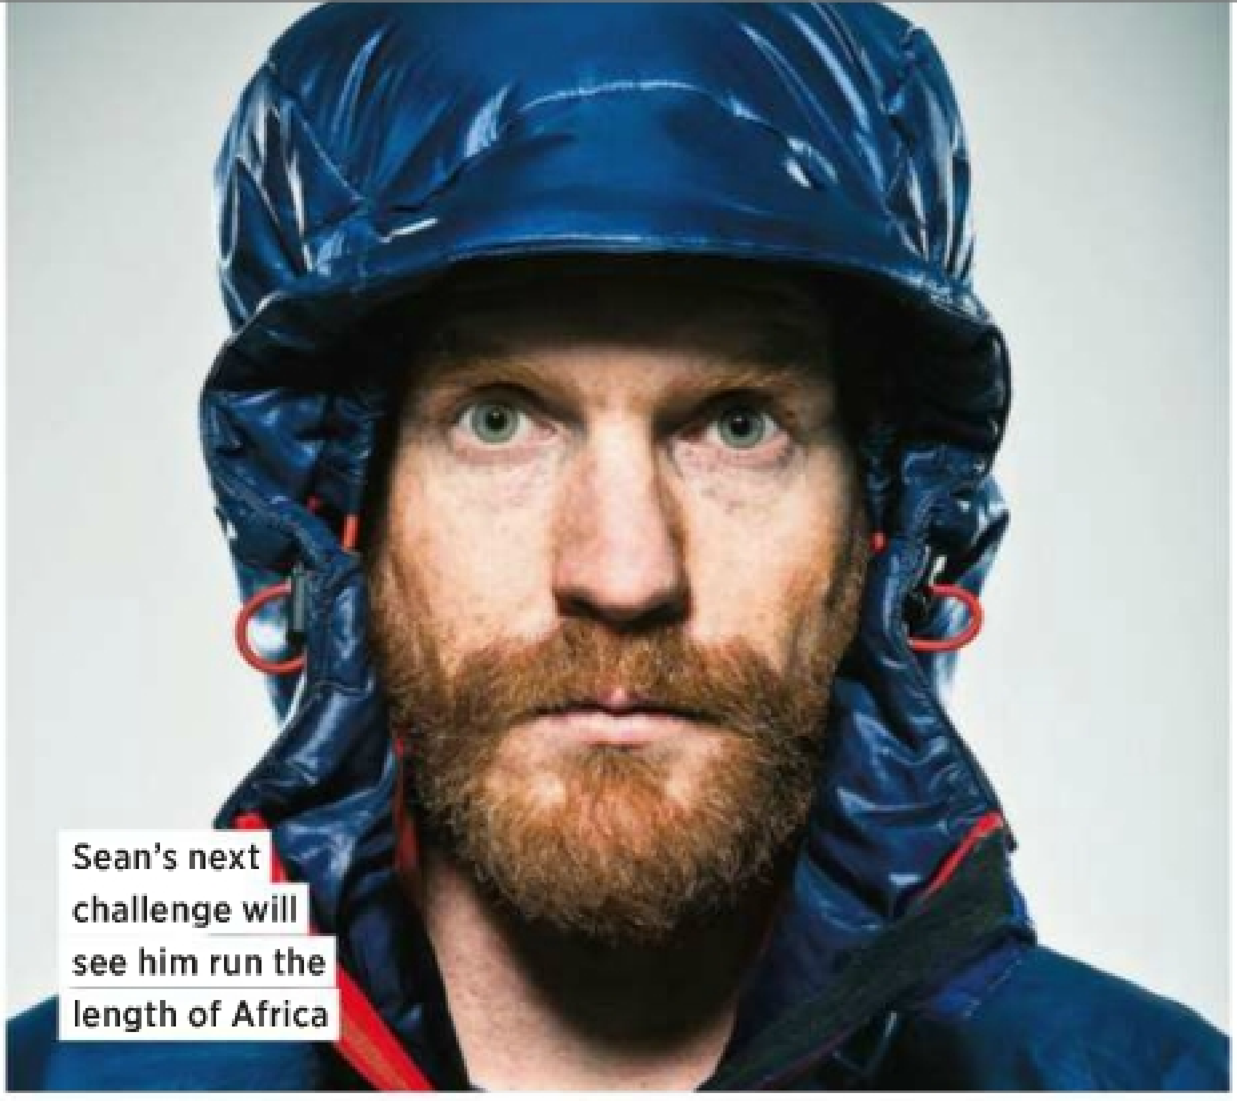
ENDURANCE ADVENTURER Sean Conway, 32, has spent the last five years conquering the world. He's cycled the globe, he became the first person to swim the length of the British Isles and now plans to run across Africa. Here, Gloucester-based Sean tells Nuts how he pushed himself beyond his physical and mental limits to achieve these impossible goals.

Hello Sean. Tell us a little bit about your background...
I used to be photographer but became disillusioned and ended up selling half of my business for a pound! It sounds ridiculous, but I hit a bit of a life-crisis in my late 20s and was looking for a change in direction. Fairly soon, I was flat broke and had no way of making a living. It was only then that I decided to take the plunge and do something completely different with my life.

To go on crazy adventures?
I suppose! I was always fascinated by people who climbed Everest, trekked to the North and South Poles, or walked across deserts. But I didn't think it was something I could ever do myself. I thought you needed lots of money, which actually isn't the case. Around this time, I discovered that the round-the-world record for cycling had just been broken – part of me was thinking, "What if you could beat that?" It seemed ridiculous at first but after working out the distances, routes and how much ground I would need to cover per day, I decided to go for it.

How did you train?
I don't have much of an athletic background, so it was difficult. But I worked with nutritionists and endurance trainers, and after six months, I was managing 200 miles per day with the weight of my supplies on my back.



Sean's next challenge will see him run the length of Africa

We hear you got seriously injured. What happened?
Everything was going well – I got good sponsors and was averaging 180 miles a day, which was well above world-record pace. But during the American leg, I got run over by a pickup truck, leaving me with whiplash, concussion and torn ligaments in my leg, neck and ankle. But the worst injury was a compression fracture to my spine. After several weeks, my doctor said I could continue the race but it would be agony.

So you continued to cycle with a broken back?
Yeah! I dropped my pace, took painkillers and kept going. Looking back, I'm just glad the truck hit me from behind, because it threw me into the air rather than going straight under the vehicle.

Your next challenge was swimming from Land's End to John O' Groats...
I posted on open sea swimming forums seeking information on tides, currents and techniques, but received a lot of negativity. People said it was a publicity stunt, that I was going to get sucked under by a whirlpool or would get eaten alive by a killer whale. I discovered that I'd be restricted to swimming for just six hours a day because it's impossible to swim when the tide is against you. This meant the race would be less strenuous but also that I'd be in the water for much longer.

Tell us a bit about the physical toll of the swim...
First off, I was physically unprepared. I spent so much time looking for sponsorship that I didn't have time to do any sea training. Also, I had to consume 8,000 calories a day to give myself enough energy, but my weight still dropped to below 10 stone because I was pushing myself so hard for four-and-a-half months. The cold saltwater made my jaw freeze and tongue swell. I had to start blending all my meals and drink them out of a puree bottle to get the calories in.

What adverse conditions did you encounter?
Plenty of whirlpools, but I planned my routes to avoid them. Jellyfish were another problem, so I grew a beard to stop them stinging my face. The weather was the biggest obstacle though. Days before the planned end of the race our team got hit by a freak storm and we lost most of our equipment. The support boat almost sank because it took on so much water. I was terrified that we were going to have to give up.

What kept you going?
My main motivation was proving all the people wrong who told me I couldn't do it. Failure was never an option. Even at our lowest moments, the crew and I were joking about what we were going to do when we arrived at John O' Groats. But that last leg was gruelling. When we arrived, there were journalists and news vans waiting for us – it was surreal.

How have your mates reacted to your adventuring ways?
If we're at the pub and someone asks, "Sean, what do you do?" my mates just groan – they know it's going to be a long conversation!

What's the next challenge?
I'm planning to do an endurance run now. I'll be taking on the length of Africa in 2015. The distance is equal to 250 marathons and I aim to complete it in eight months. In terms of difficulty, it will rival the swim but the truth is we're all a lot more physically and mentally capable than we think we are. I've learned that first hand. ✖

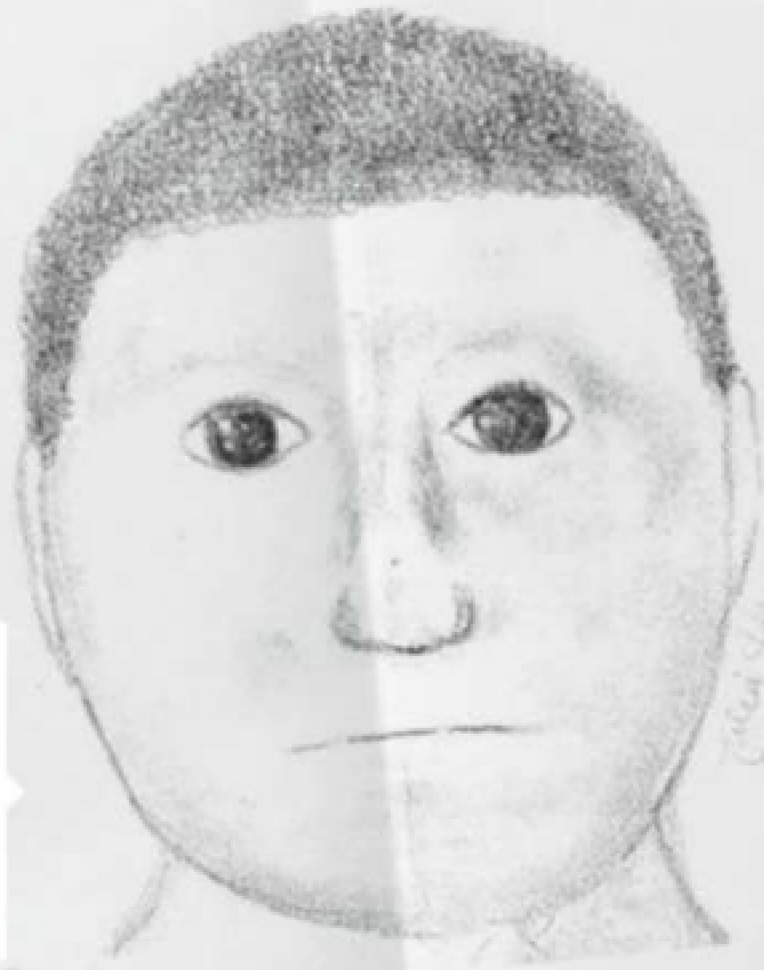
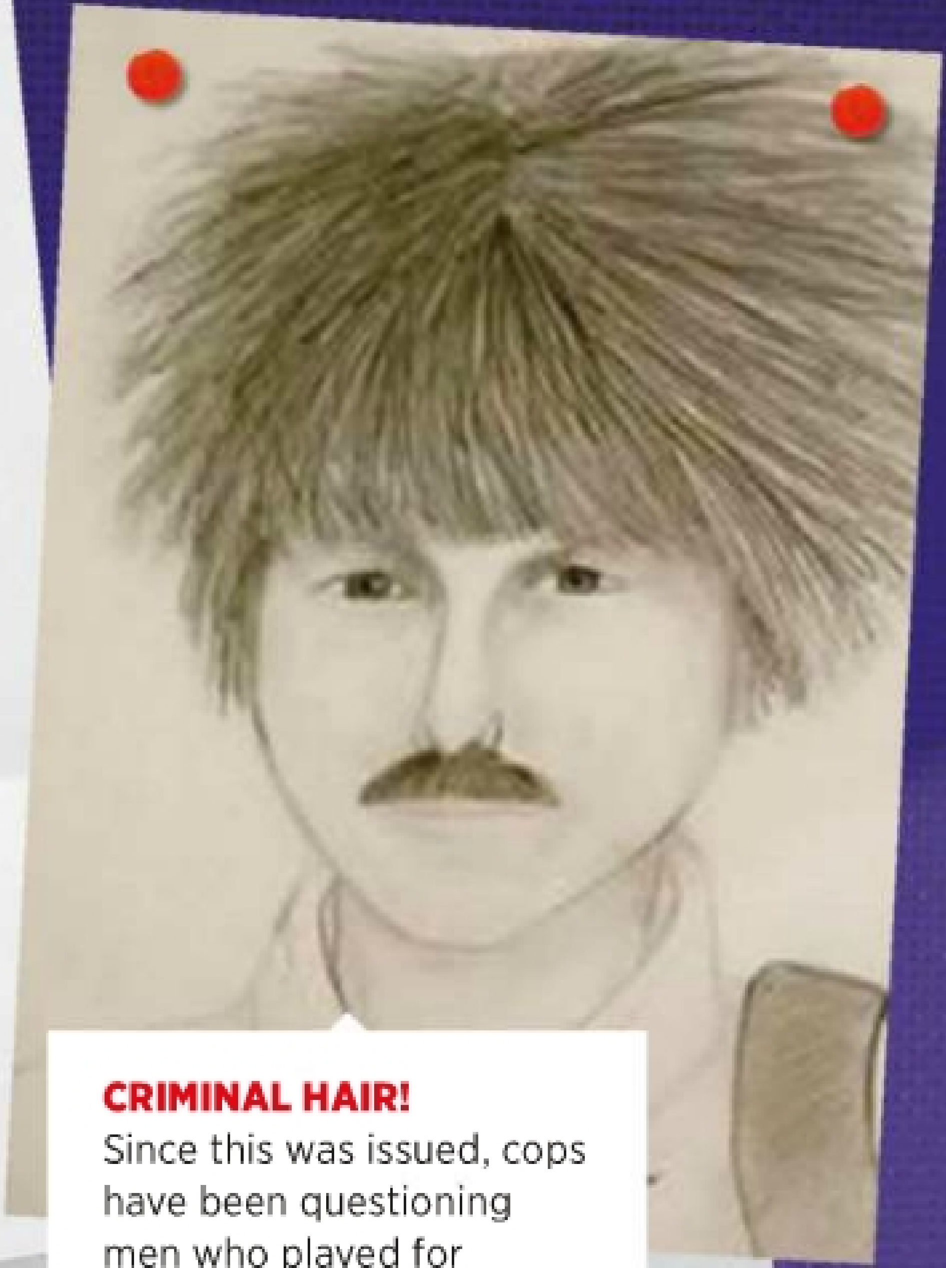
POLICE APPEAL FOR ASSISTANCE

SILLY POLICE SKETCHES!

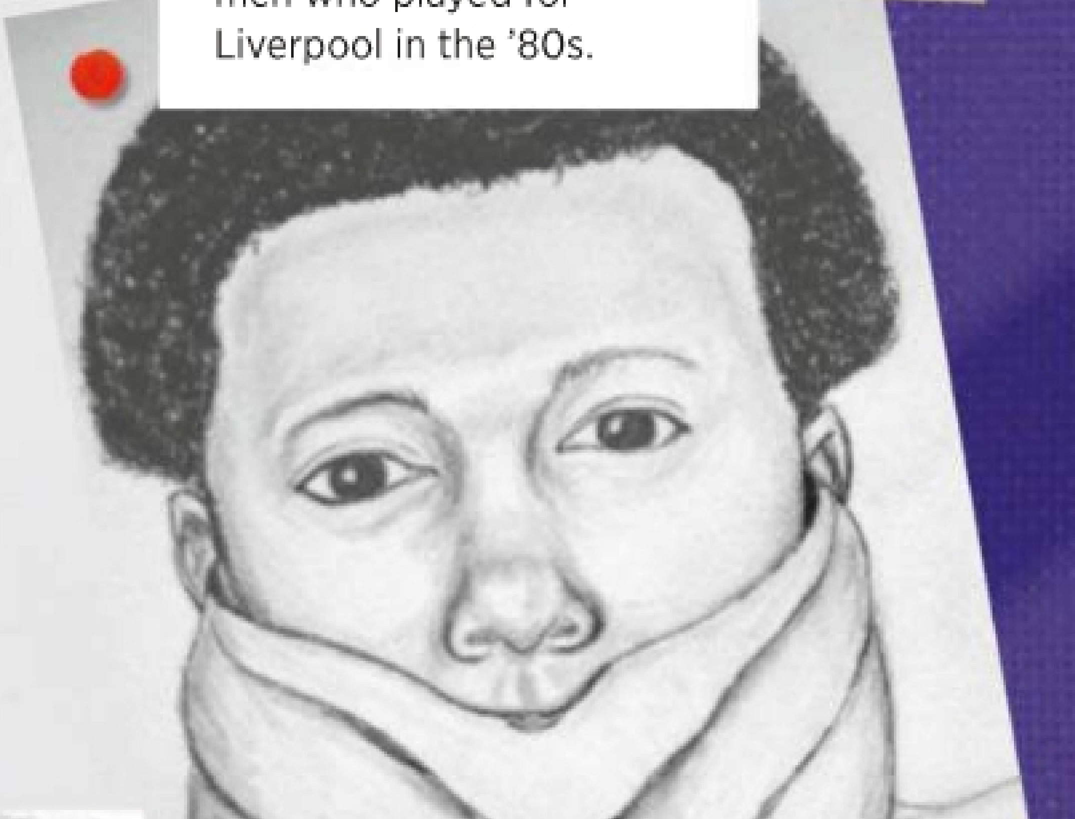
Actual police sketches! The only criminals here are the artists!



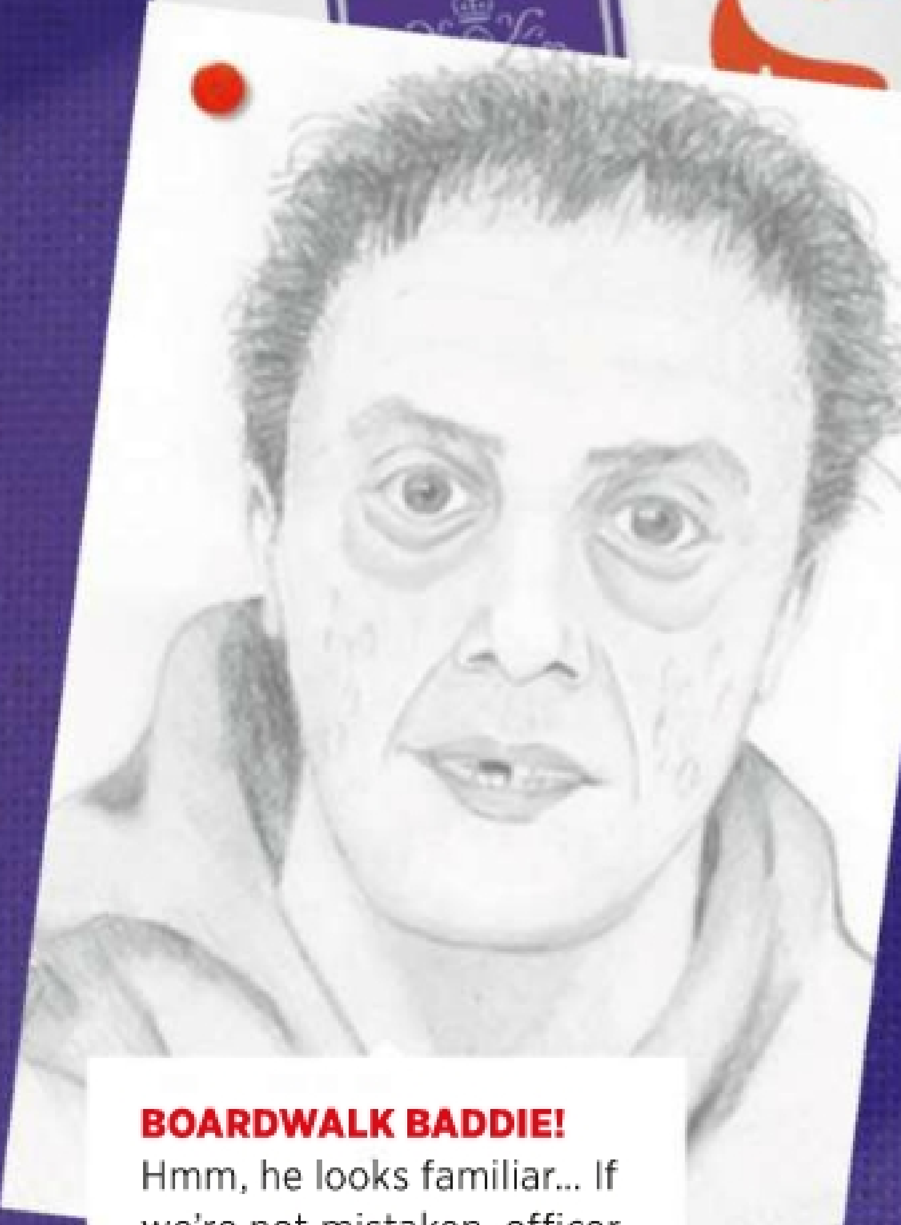
BIG ROUND FACE!
"So, he's in his early 30s, dark hair, stocky build, about 5ft 10... Oh, and he looks a bit like the moon."



CRIMINAL HAIR!
Since this was issued, cops have been questioning men who played for Liverpool in the '80s.

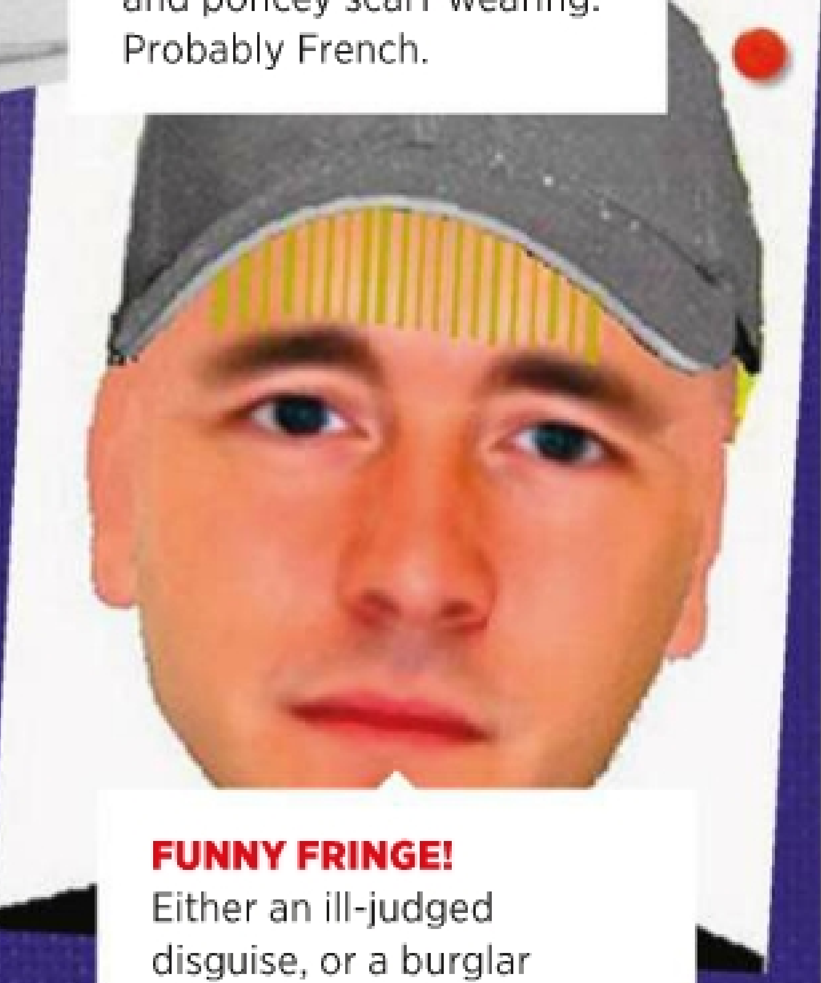


COOL CUSTOMER!
This chap's suspected of third-degree nonchalance, and poncey scarf-wearing. Probably French.

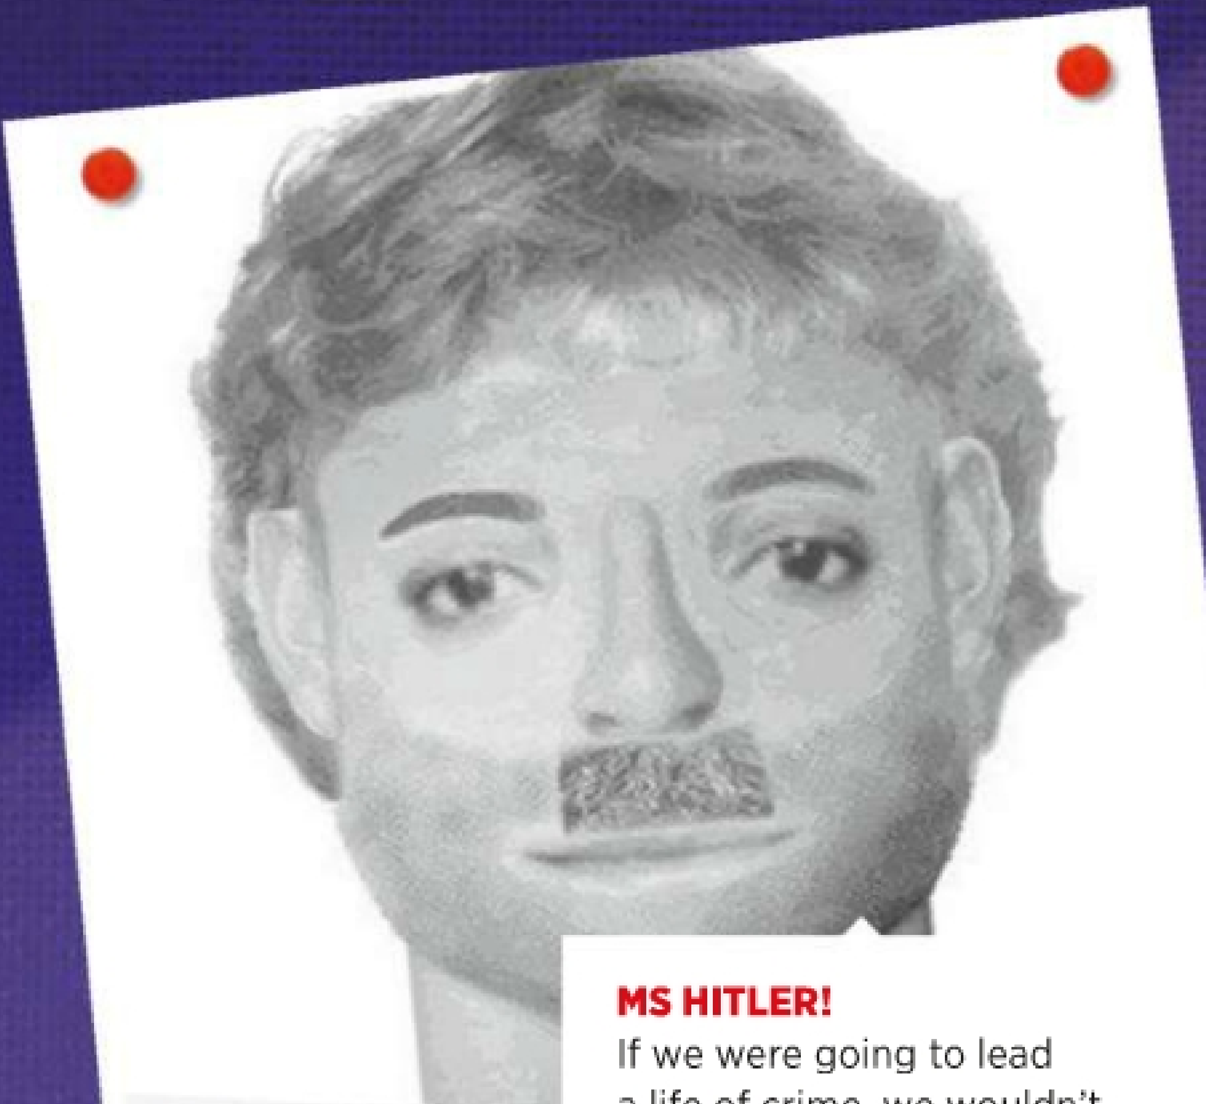


BOARDWALK BADDIE!
Hmm, he looks familiar... If we're not mistaken, officer, it's Steve Buscemi from Boardwalk Empire!

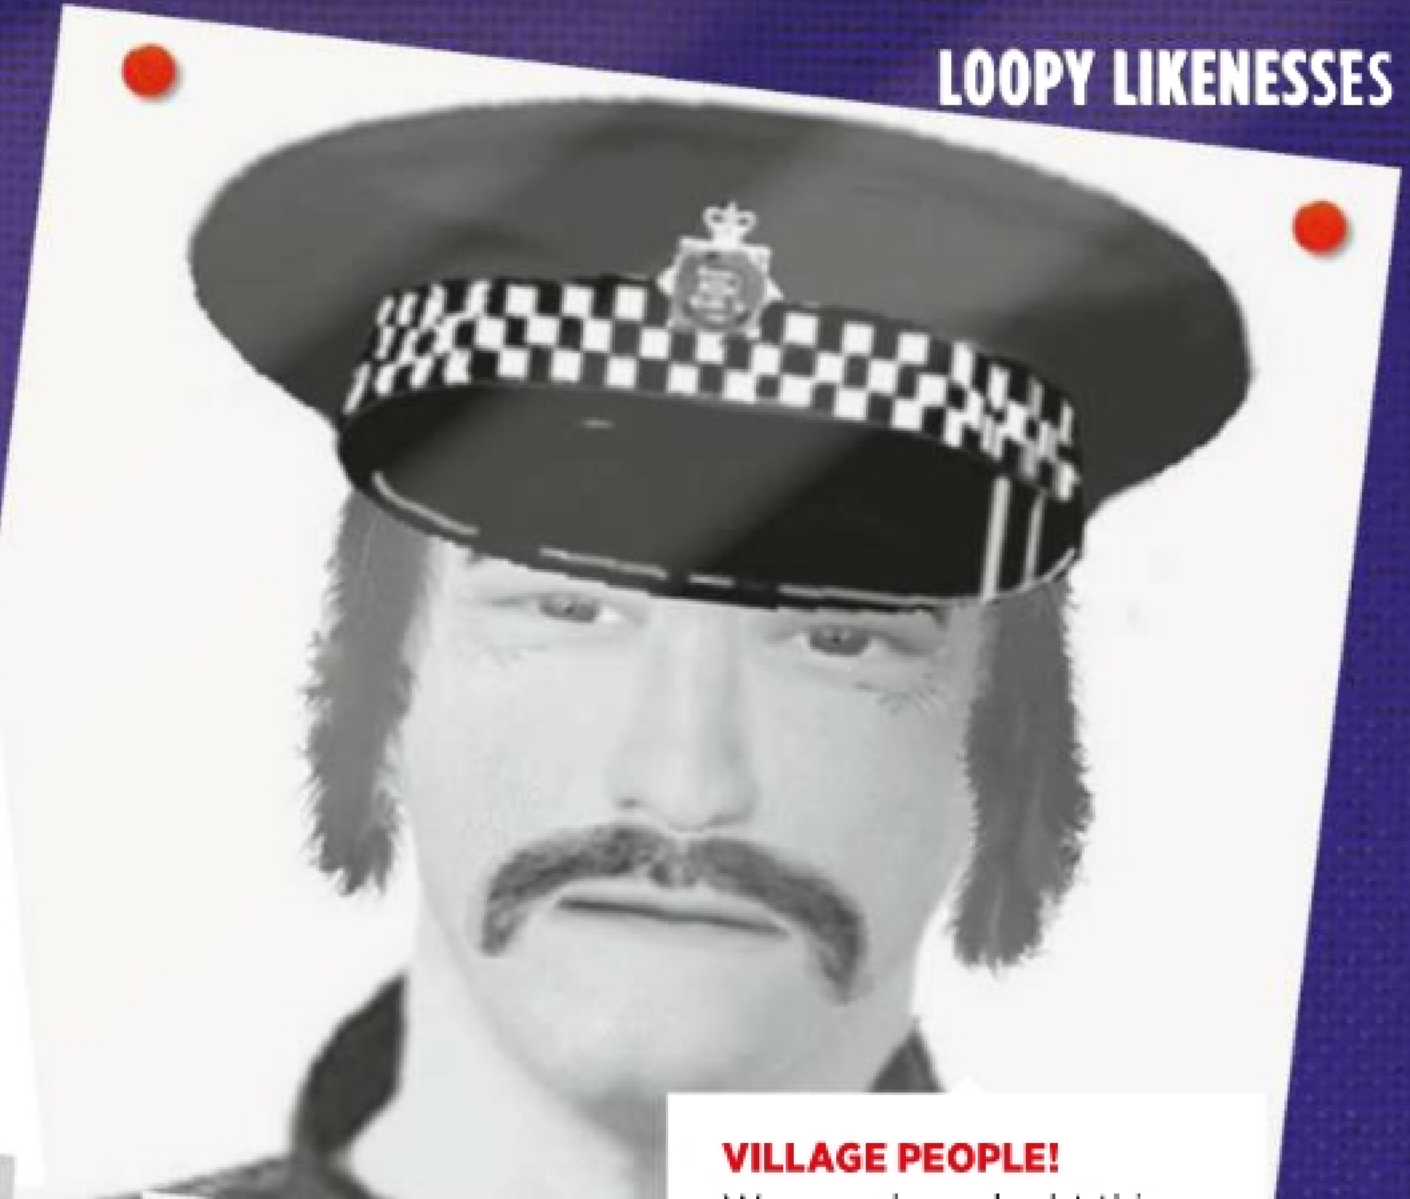
WELLER FELLA!
Looks like the law has finally caught up with Mod crooner Paul Weller for his crimes against hairstyles!



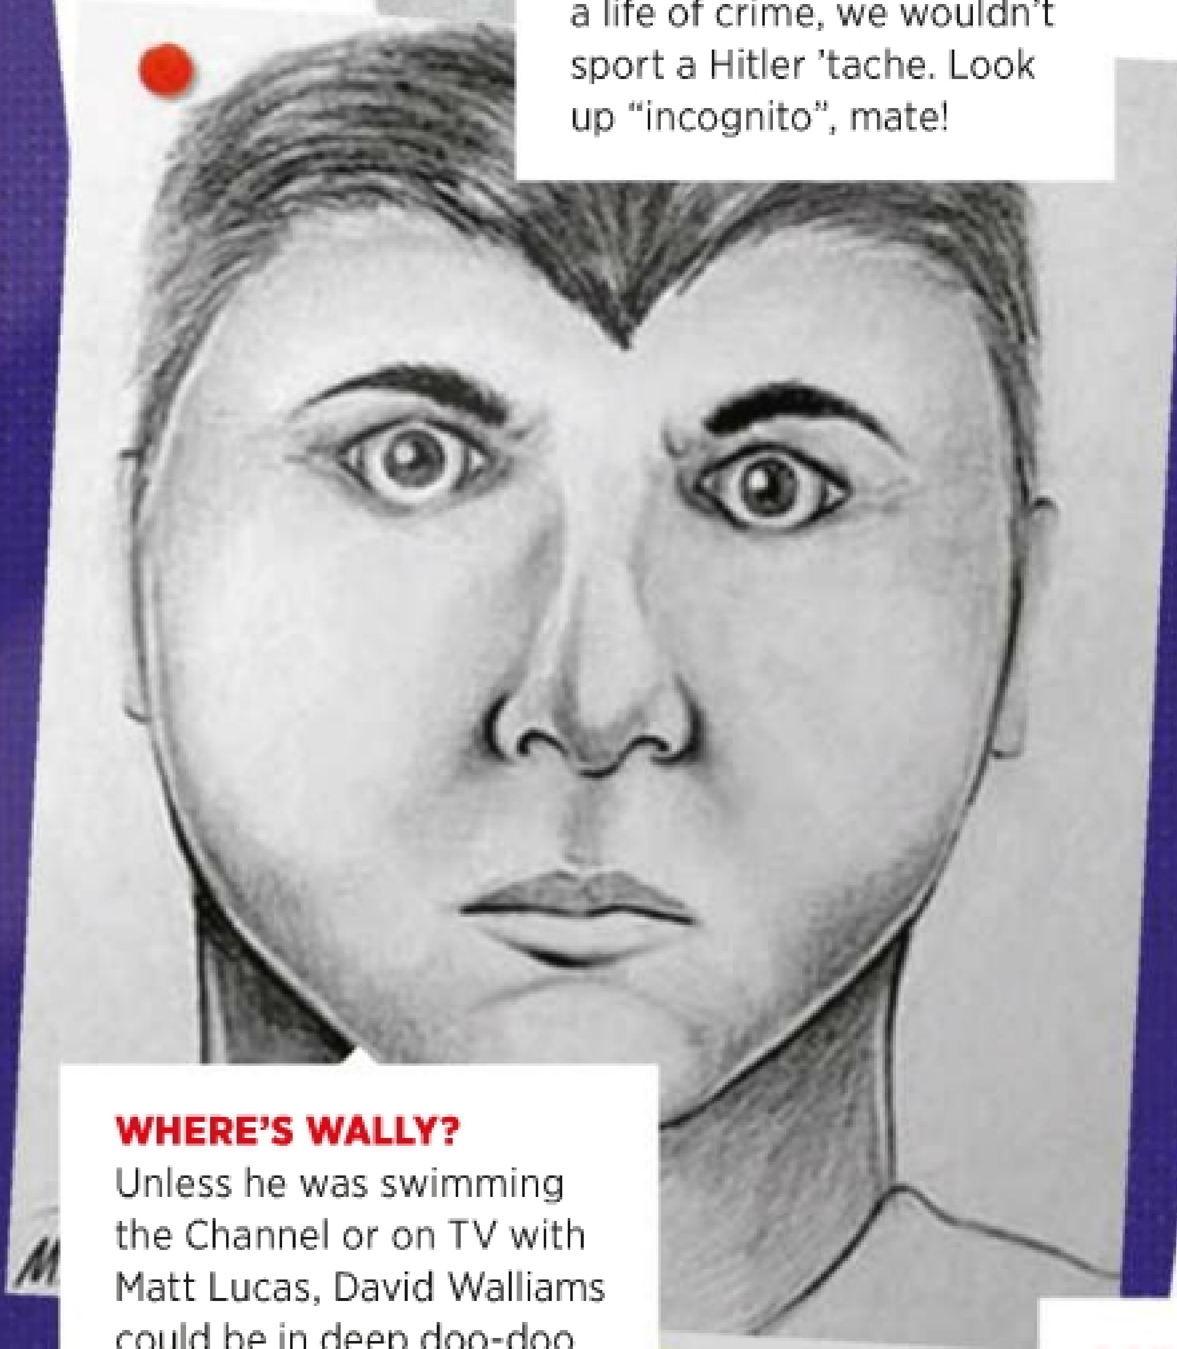
FUNNY FRINGE!
Either an ill-judged disguise, or a burglar having a bad hair day. Looks like a right wally!



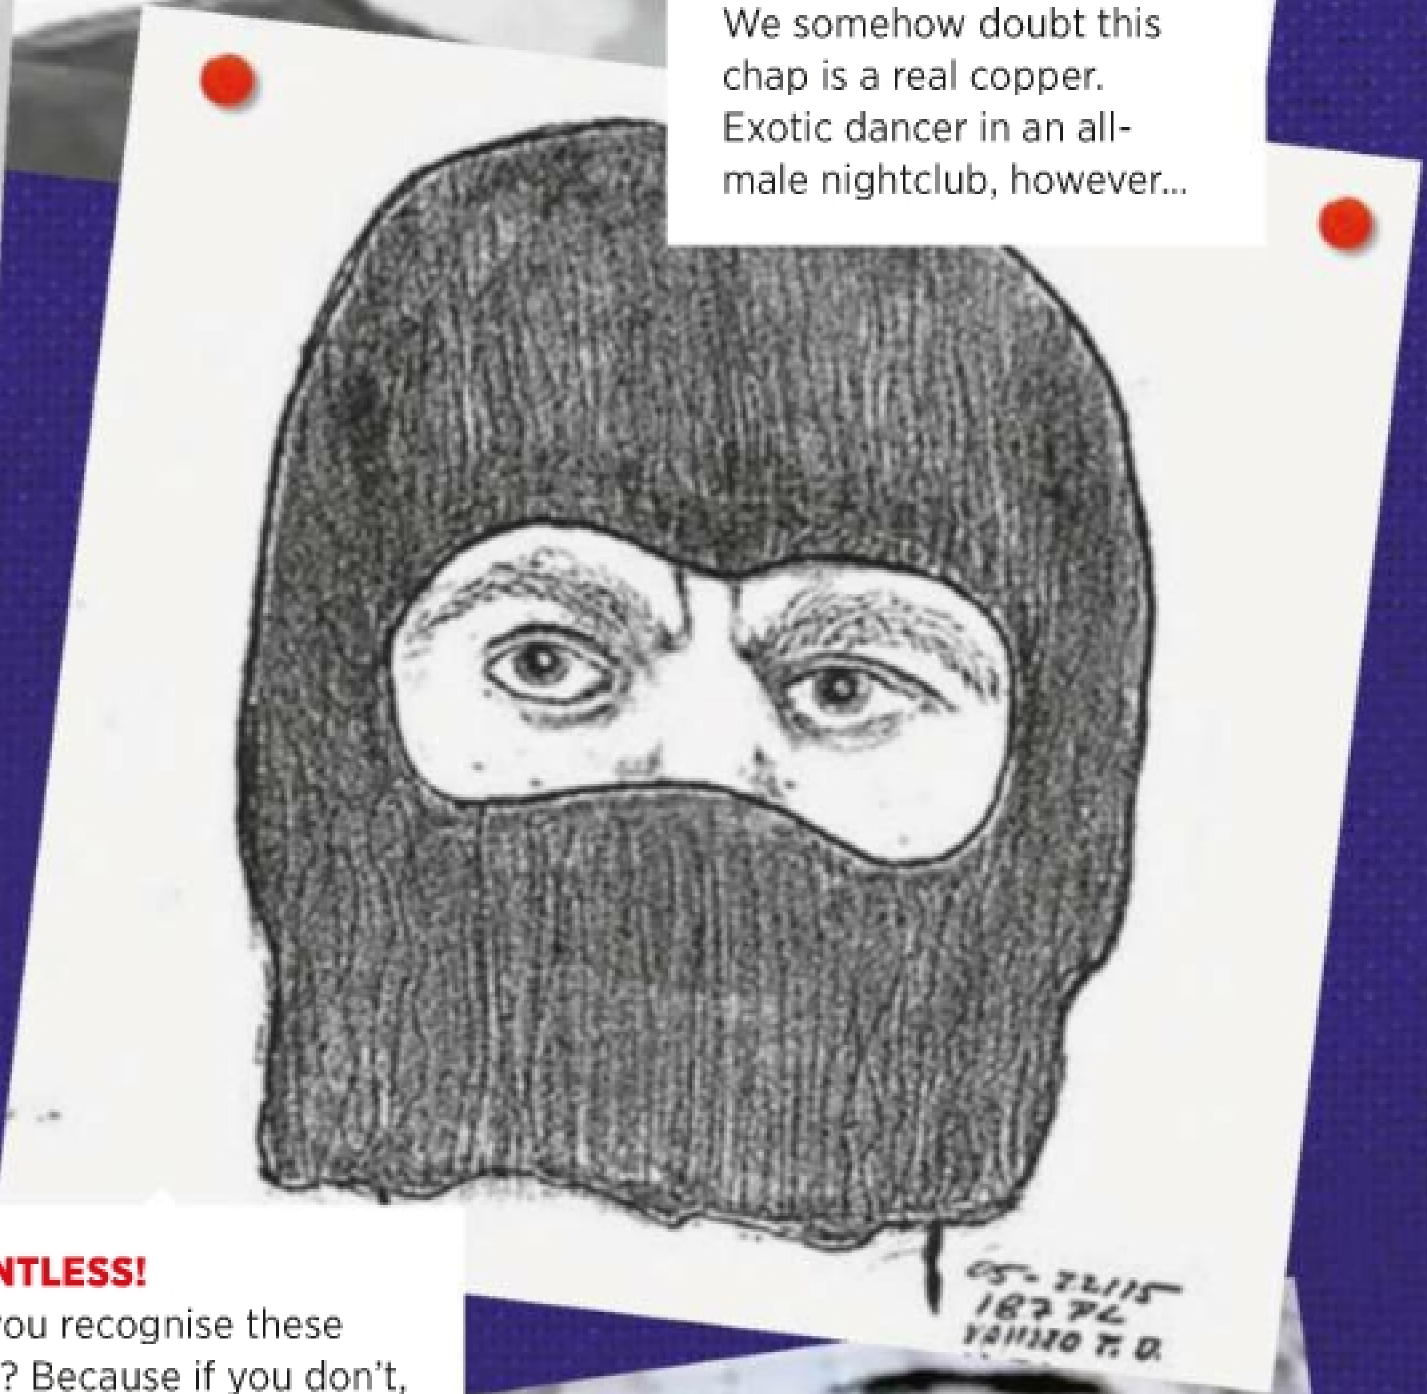
MS HITLER!
If we were going to lead a life of crime, we wouldn't sport a Hitler 'tache. Look up "incognito", mate!



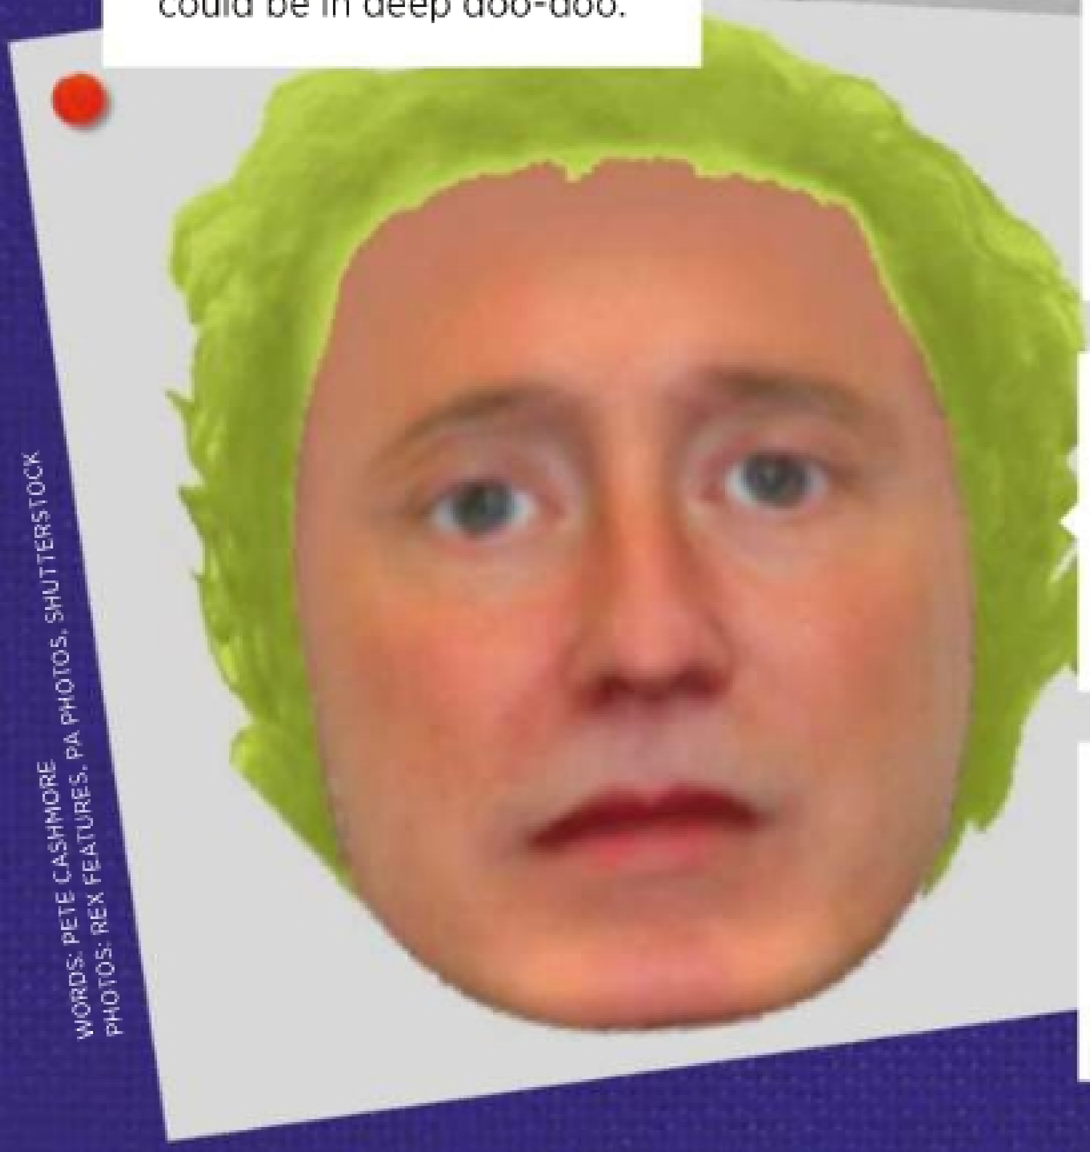
VILLAGE PEOPLE!
We somehow doubt this chap is a real copper. Exotic dancer in an all-male nightclub, however...



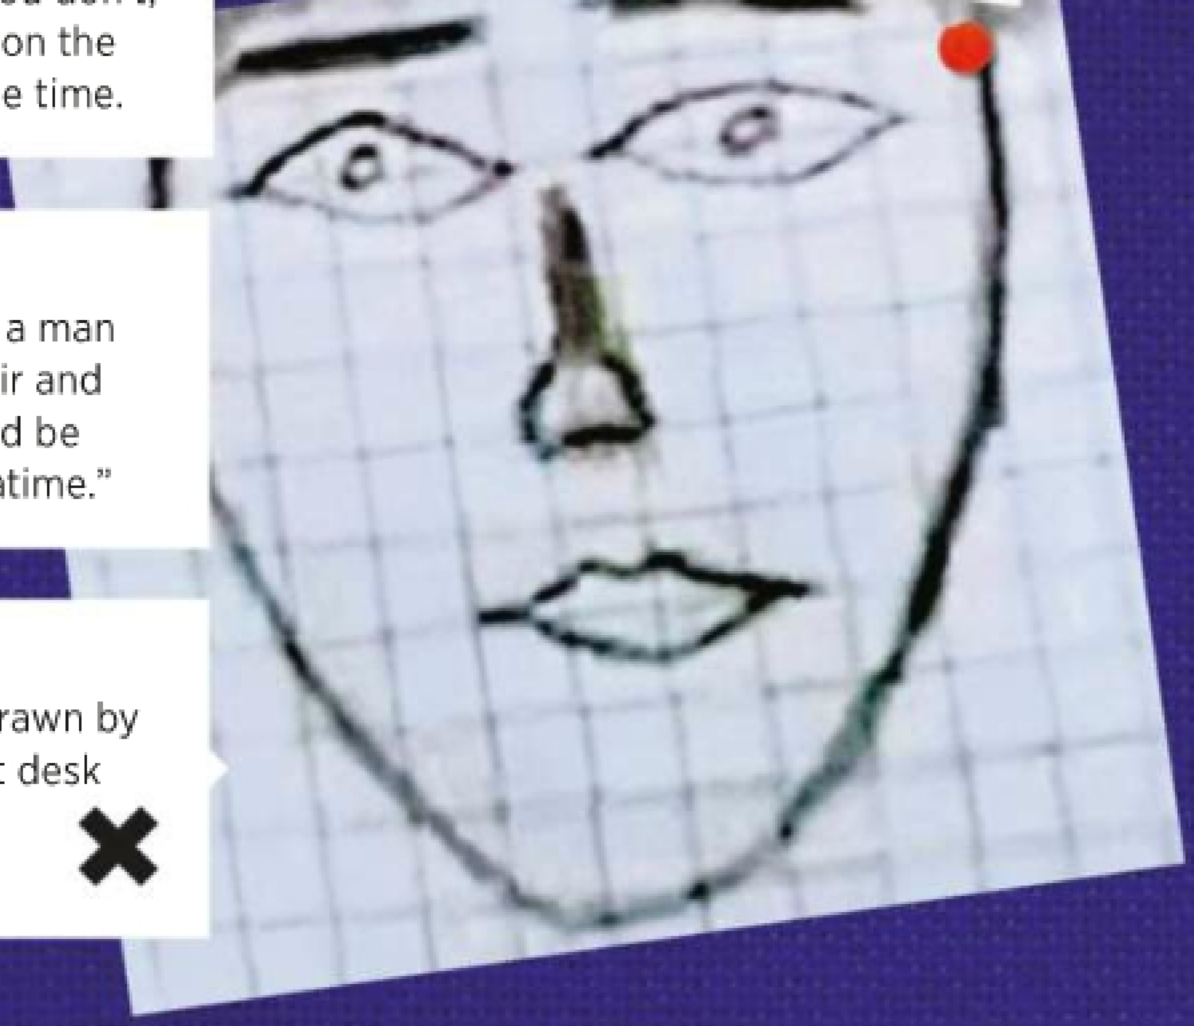
WHERE'S WALLY?
Unless he was swimming the Channel or on TV with Matt Lucas, David Walliams could be in deep doo-doo.



POINTLESS!
Do you recognise these eyes? Because if you don't, the cops could be on the case for quite some time.



GREEN HAIR!
"We're looking for a man with lime green hair and no ears. This should be wrapped up by teatime."



KIDDY ART!
Looks like it was drawn by one of the Nuts art desk but, unbelievably, is real. Sketchy! ✖

BILLIE FAIERS PRESENTS...

TV's Sexiest Babes!

TOWIE's finest introduces the most smoking hot girls of the small screen!

"Me and the TOWIE girls take twerking lessons!"

Hi Billie! What did you make of sister Sam's performance in Celeb Big Brother last month?
I'm so proud of her for making it to the final – she did us all proud. I loved watching her in there – she's a natural beauty!

And you look extra lovely today!
Thank you! It's nice to be getting into the New Year with a sexy new Nuts shoot.

Indeed! We hear you've started twerking lessons. Is this true?
Yes! It was me and Lucy Mecklenburgh, Ferne McCann and Gemma Collins all tried it. We were so out of breath!

How did you rate Joey Essex in the jungle last year?
I think that he did so well. It was disgusting to watch him doing all the gross challenges.

Can he really not tell the time?
I have no idea. I don't remember him ever telling the time. It's just about believable, knowing Joey!

We heard you've been taking your shop, Minnie's Boutique, around the UK in pop-up form. Isn't that just a posh way of saying car boot sale?
No! It's a very cute boutique. We've been in Liverpool, Southampton and Manchester. It's always such a laugh!

If you had a shoplifter at Minnie's, would you know how to put them in a choke hold?
Ha-ha! We haven't had any shoplifters. People know we might name and shame them on the show.

Who would you most like to give a big, posh makeover to?
We've always said that we'd love to do Kate Middleton. We'd like to put her in a mini dress or a onesie.

Is it ever acceptable for a bloke to wear a onesie?
No! I don't think they're very flattering on a man. ►

"My sister Sam is a natural beauty!"

"I'd like to give Kate Middleton a makeover!"

If I saw a bloke wearing one, I'd cut the crotch out so he couldn't wear it, I think.

What's the least glamorous thing you've done recently?
I'm always loafing around the house in pyjamas. Yesterday, I drove all the way to Norfolk in a onesie.

Amazing! What other telly stuff have you got coming up?
I was meant to do Family Fortunes, but we couldn't get everyone into one room at the same time because of TOWIE.

It's Valentine's Day this week. What advice would you give a chap who wanted to buy a lady some sexy smalls?
Keep it simple. Sexy underwear always looks better when it's classy. I'd go for a really nice black or red set.

Have you ever been recognised somewhere that you wouldn't expect it?
I was recognised in Dubai a couple of years ago. You wouldn't really think they'd watch TOWIE out there.

If you and Sam were to do your own reality spin-off, what would it be like?
We'd do a show like Keeping Up With The Kardashians! We've got years of entertainment ahead of us!

What do Essex girls look for in a chap?
Well, he's got to be very generous, but also have a bit of class about him. I think good teeth, good shoes, a nice shirt and a nice smell go far.

Did you set a New Year's resolution?
Yes, to learn how to cook really nice dinners for my family and my friends.

Thanks, Billie! Finally then, what are you really looking forward to this year?
The World Cup! I think we can do well. We've still got good players like Rooney, Lampard and Gerrard. ►

Turn over for TV's Sexiest Babes!

KAYLEIGH-FAY TAKE ME OUT
This lovely Yorkshire lass is an accountant by day, but you'll know her from her sassy Saturday night frolics on pre-pub favourite Take Me Out.

JESSICA WRIGHT TOWIE
The model turned reality telly babe has another string to her bow – a budding pop career. She's one of a troupe of TOWIE stunners who'll be back on our screens this month.

CHLOE SIMS TOWIE
Chloe's no stranger to Nuts shoots and told us, "If I can get away with just wearing a bra, I will!" Hopefully we'll see her sticking to her word in the next series of TOWIE.

POLLYANNA WOODWARD THE GADGET SHOW
The booby blonde swapped her gadgets and gizmos for the diving board recently – she was one of the breathtaking babes who made Splash! worth watching.

CASEY BATCHELOR CELEBRITY BIG BROTHER
Casey will be remembered for her frisky frolics in CBB. We were gripped by her love triangle involving Jasmine Waltz and Lee Ryan. Now that's a lot of boobs! (Lee included.) ►

GEMMA MERNA HOLLYOAKS
Having seen the booby babe on ITV's diving show Splash! recently, we're happy to report that our sexy soap queen looks just as hot in a swimsuit as she does in Hollyoaks.

FERNE McCANN TOWIE
We were utterly thrilled when we found out that new babe on the block Ferne had a smattering of saucy snaps up her sleeve, and that she was willing to share them with Nuts!

JASMINE WALTZ CELEBRITY BIG BROTHER
The awesome American babe wasted no time getting from the Big Bro house to the Nuts studio after her recent TV stint. She's one of the show's hottest-ever housemates!

LUISA ZISSMAN CELEBRITY BIG BROTHER
The nation was blessed with a sexy CBB line-up this year… and we're not referring to Lionel Blair in that PVC suit. Lovely Luisa really sent our jaws dropping to the floor.

JENNA JONATHAN THE VALLEYS
Welsh lady Jenna's very feisty. And very fit, of course. Check her out in the new series of The Valleys later in the month to see exactly what we mean.

►

NATALEE & LATEYSHA THE VALLEYS
Our lives have been brightened up by these beautiful Welsh wonders, but we'd still be a bit scared to go out drinking with them. Oh, what the heck, one can't hurt!

LUCY MECKLENBURGH TOWIE
We have a lot to thank Essex for. Just when we think their reality babes can't get any sexier, Lucy appears from behind a curtain without any clothes on. Hello Lucy!

JORGIE PORTER HOLLYOAKS
The Hollyoaks star brought double cheer to the start of the year by going on Dancing On Ice. We wouldn't recommend skating in this attire though, Jorgie. It can get a bit nippy.

SOPHIE-ROSE SOUTH SIDE STORY
The Beeb's latest reality show is combining South London life with musical talent – a bit like Glee meets EastEnders. The sexy new star clearly has a right pair of... lungs on her!

SAM FAIERS CELEBRITY BIG BROTHER
It was a hat-trick for this year's star-studded house when it came to gorgeous girls, and we'll soon see Sam on the box again in the new series of TOWIE.

CUBAN FURY

14 February • 15

Nick Frost plays a former ballroom dancing prodigy "with fire in his heels and snakes in his hips" who returns to the world of the glitter ball to win the heart of the girl of his dreams from slimy rival Chris O'Dowd. We normally go for salsa of the nacho-dipping variety, but Cuban Fury's the perfect date movie for Valentine's Day and "strictly" laugh-out-loud funny. ★★★★★

Tom Hanks chalks up another great performance in a true-life tale as the skipper of a US cargo ship hijacked by Somali pirates. If you're expecting a typical action film, you'll be surprised – in a good way. As the tension builds, the plight of the pirates is examined, as well as that of Phillips and his crew, making for one of the most powerful films of last year. Brilliant! ★★★★★

"Stay by the car and look tough. I'll get the doughnuts!"

THIS WEEK!

Action movie marathon!

Brutal fights! Explosions! Car chases! Get your mates over – these films rock!

WHEN THREE corking DVDs turned up at Nuts last week we couldn't decide which one to pick – so we decided to watch them all! Top films? A few beers? We reckon we've discovered the perfect cheap night in! Plus we've now got enough money to see RoboCop at the cinema!

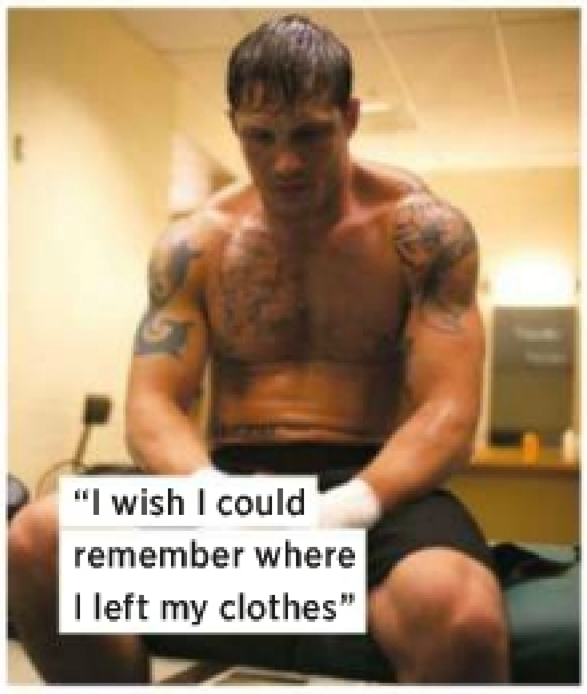
WARRIOR

12A

First up was the bone-crunching classic Warrior. It stars Tom Hardy and Joel Edgerton as estranged brothers who end up on opposite sides of the Octagon in a brutal cage-fighting contest. Powerful stuff.



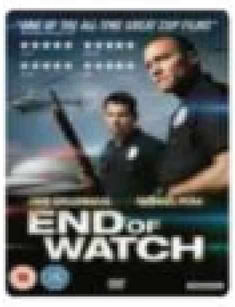
"I wish I could remember where I left my clothes"

HUMMINGBIRD

15

The next film we slipped into the DVD player was the awesome Hummingbird. It stars Jason Statham as a homeless ex-special forces bloke who becomes a kick-ass vigilante on the streets of London.

"Take that, Gyllenhaal!"



END OF WATCH

15

Our third and final film was the excellent End Of Watch, starring Jake Gyllenhaal and Michael Peña, as two young cops battling to clean up the meanest streets in LA.

"OK, very funny. Now turn the lights back on!"

Verdict...

Here's what we think...

Nuts man Rom says:

"Warrior's cage-fighting scenes are so realistic – Tom Hardy is hench! Nick Nolte, who plays his dad, steals the show, though!"

Nuts man Tom says:

"Hummingbird isn't a typical Stath film – there's more to the story than his other films. He still cracks plenty of skulls, though!"

Nuts man Mark says:

"A mate told me how good End Of Watch is and it didn't disappoint. It thunders along, and the end is mental. I flippin' loved it!"

VERDICT:

All three films are man-movie heaven. Get the popcorn in!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Kinga

22 London

1 Where's the best place you've had sex?
"I have a thing for outdoor sex, or sex in unusual places. Car park, tennis court, woods, swimming pool, gym... I love it all! However, I think the most exciting place would have to be behind the old church near my house."

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?
"My signature sex move is catching my man off guard. The more unlikely the place and time, the crazier the sex becomes! I make sure I surprise my man as often as I can."

3 What really turns you on?
"I'm 100 per cent sapiosexual – which means I'm attracted to clever people. Intelligence is a huge turn-on for me, and this is probably the reason why I've often fancied my lecturers!"

4 What's your favourite position?
"It all depends on my mood. I have a chameleon personality so one day, I can feel dominant and powerful, and another day, I can feel very submissive, wanting the other person to take control. If I'm seeing someone for a longer period of time, I prefer positions where I can see my lover's face as I feel that we have more of a connection."

5 Is it better to give or receive?
"Giving. There's nothing more enjoyable than seeing your lover moan with pleasure because you know you're pressing the right buttons."

6 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?
"A threesome with two guys. Or having a quickie in a lift."

7 Ever got it on with another girl?
"Yes, I have. I'm 100 per cent bisexual, so being in a romantic relationship with another woman isn't a novelty to me."

8 What's your sexy outfit of choice?
"I have a few costumes, but my favourite's a naughty nurse outfit. Ready for your medical examination? Ha-ha!"

9 Have you ever made a rude video?
"Too right! It was filmed on a phone, so it looked nothing like the glossy, sexy films you get on DVD."

PHOTOS: PAUL MUSSO

10 What's the rudest thing you've ever done?

"It depends how you look at it... I think the answer to that question is either a threesome with another girl, or a bit of rude play in the dungeon... now that was pretty naughty!"

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'Skinny-dipping fun in sun'

I'VE JUST been on a winter break to Tenerife with a few friends. One day, we were daring each other to go skinny-dipping in the sea, then some good-looking guys came along so we all stripped off and dived in. I really fancied one of the guys and he was really well endowed, so I couldn't resist playing with him in the sea. Obviously he loved it, so he started fondling me and soon we were having a great time. But we weren't that far from the beach so everyone could see what we were up to, which was even more of a turn on!

Casey Brighton

'I pulled in a posh pub'

I REALLY wanted to go to a gorgeous pub in London's posh Mayfair – I'd walked past it a few times and seen lots of smart guys in there. So I took a few friends along and we shared a table with four older guys who run a hedge fund. They bought us lots of drinks and dinner, then we moved on to a nightclub where they were VIP members and we got a great table by the dancefloor. One of the guys hadn't left my side all night and made it clear he wanted me as a play thing. After lots of flirting, we tiptoed into the disabled toilet and I let him go down on me, pulling my skirt up and revealing my hold ups. A memorable Friday night!

Jenny North London

'Wine tasting got fruity'

THE GUY I've been seeing took me to a wine tasting event in a posh restaurant. We ended up quite tipsy and frisky, and he kept grabbing my boobs when no one was looking, so I replied with a squeeze of his crotch. We sneaked off to the toilet, where I freed his hard erection and knelt down to give him head. It was cramped and the door wouldn't lock but we both moaned in delight. He hoisted up my skirt as I wriggled my tights down. Pulling my pink panties to one side, he slid inside me. It was fast and passionate, I was soon coming loudly, but before he reached his climax there was a voice – it was the uber-posh restaurant manager telling us to get dressed and get out, and never come back! I'm sure he was just jealous.

Jaydee South London

'I scored on Skype'

I JOINED Tinder and almost immediately got in contact with a hot guy who lived near me. We're both busy so haven't had time to date yet but Skype chats have become our way of getting to know each other. One day, he cheekily asked to see my boobs so I gave him a good view. He then showed me the bulge in his trousers and before long he was playing with his stiffy on screen. We were both turned on and I soon angled the camera to show him how I was enjoying watching him, pushing my fingers inside myself and rubbing my clit. He kept talking dirty to me, so my fingers worked faster and harder until I climaxed loudly as he watched. It's still a week to go until our first proper date – but I know it'll be electric!

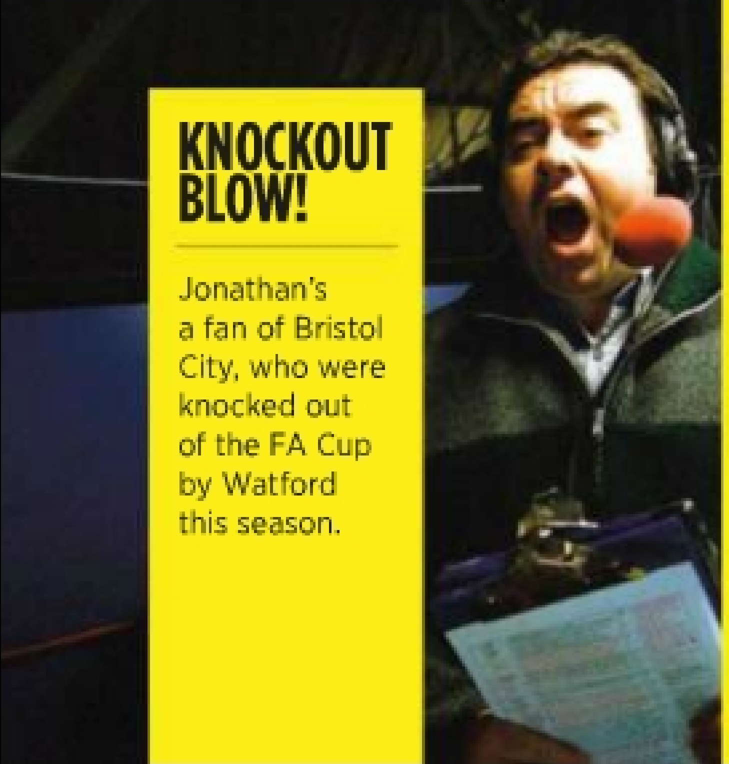
FA Cup 5th round preview!

5Live's Jonathan Pearce on the big guns' credentials!

AS SOON as the FA Cup 5th round draw was made, mouths started watering, because the nation's top four teams had drawn one another, with Manchester City welcoming Chelsea and Arsenal playing host to Liverpool. But cup football can be an unpredictable beast, so we invited Radio 5Live mega-pundit Jonathan Pearce to help us understand the two ties a little better...

- Man City vs Chelsea is on ITV/HD on Saturday 15 February at 5.15pm. Arsenal vs Liverpool is on ITV/HD on Sunday 16 February at 4pm.



KNOCKOUT BLOW!

Jonathan's a fan of Bristol City, who were knocked out of the FA Cup by Watford this season.

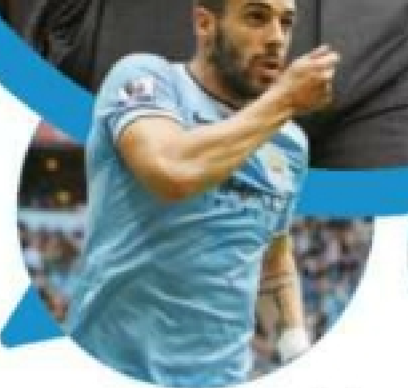
MANCHESTER CITY

HOW'S THEIR CUP PEDIGREE?
"They were awful in last season's final defeat to Wigan. They're out to repeat the 2011 success when they won it for the fifth time."

HOW MUCH DO THEY WANT IT?
"Manuel Pellegrini needs to prove he can actually get a team across the line and win things. They need to get revenge for the costly Premier League defeat to Chelsea earlier this month."

WHO CAN THEY REST?
"No one. Injuries have already left them without Aguero, Fernandinho and Nasri of late, and the decision to leave Hart, Kompany and Zabaleta on the bench against Watford nearly backfired horribly. Negredo needs rest though."

WILL THEIR BIGGEST STARS PLAY?
"They won't risk injured players with the Champions League clash with Barcelona so close, but they know they'll need their stars shining to beat Mourinho this time."

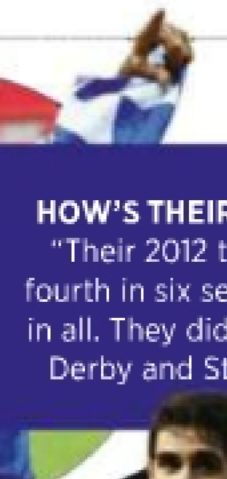


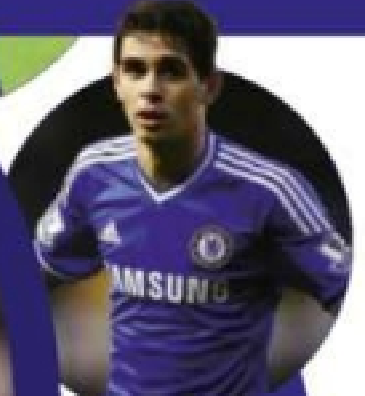
KEY MAN
"The strikers get the headlines but Yaya Toure set the tone for last season's semi-final win over the Blues with his early surges up field."

WHAT DOES THE FORM BOOK SAY?
"From the 7-0 against Norwich on 2 November to the 4-2 win over Cardiff on 18 January, they had 11 home wins on the spin, scoring 49 goals. But that air of invincibility has now gone. Watford led two-nil there, and Chelsea beat them."

V

CHELSEA





HOW'S THEIR CUP PEDIGREE?
"Their 2012 triumph was their fourth in six seasons and seventh in all. They didn't sparkle against Derby and Stoke this season."

HOW MUCH DO THEY WANT IT?
"Jose Mourinho will be targeting the Premier League and Champions League above this. But he won't want to be beaten by Pellegrini. He has to maintain his hoodoo over the City boss."

KEY MAN:
"Fernando Torres could hold the key if he's fit. He should have had a penalty late on in last season's semi-final and his aggressive running concerned City at Chelsea in the autumn, when he profited from a howler to grab the winner."

WHAT DOES THE FORM BOOK SAY?
"The 1-0 win at the Etihad took Chelsea to ten games unbeaten with just two goals conceded. They're showing they have the winning mentality to get the job done."

WILL THEIR BIGGEST STARS PLAY?
"Oscar has starred on this run so far and the side has bulged with big names. It'll be interesting to see if Torres will be fit. He bugged City at Stamford Bridge in a Chelsea win."

WHO CAN THEY AFFORD TO REST?
"Azpilicueta has replaced Ashley Cole as Mourinho's first choice left-back but the England veteran has been used in both FA Cup ties this season. Cech and Terry have also both been rested so far to allow Schwarzer and Luiz to come in."

PHOTOS: ACTION IMAGES, PA PHOTOS

WHO WILL WIN? "Chelsea's defensive resolve can lead to at least a draw, but I think City will edge the tie with their counter-attacking in a replay. Neither manager will want a second game." City after a replay.

ARSENAL

HOW'S THEIR CUP PEDIGREE?
"They've fallen at this stage in the last two years. Wenger has won it four times, the last time in 2005 after Patrick Vieira's spot-kick. They've beaten Liverpool in their last two meetings in the FA Cup."

WHAT DOES THE FORM BOOK SAY?
"In the last two years, their quest for honours has ended abruptly round about now, with Champions League exits coming days after an FA Cup fifth round defeat. They can't afford a repeat."

WILL THEIR BIGGEST STARS PLAY?
"Jack Wilshere has been at the heart of their FA Cup run this season. They'll hope he's fit. Cazorla and Oxlade-Chamberlain have run into a rich vein of form. They should feature strongly."

HOW MUCH DO THEY WANT IT?
"Arsene Wenger will prioritise the Premier League, but he'll know the psychological importance of winning ahead of the Champions League clash with Bayern Munich three days later."

KEY MAN
"Santi Cazorla's season burst into life with his goal in Arsenal's 2-0 win over Liverpool at the Emirates in November and scored at Anfield last season. He's really starting to buzz again."

WHO CAN THEY AFFORD TO REST?
"Szczesny, Mertesacker, Cazorla, Özil and Giroud have all been rested – in either one or both games – in Arsenal's run in this season's competition. Giroud in particular needs wrapping in cotton-wool because Arsenal desperately need him to stay fit for the rest of the season."

LIVERPOOL

KEY MAN
"Luis Suarez is my Footballer of the Year so far. To come back from a ten-match ban and hit 19 league goals in the next 12 league games was a sensational feat."

WHO CAN THEY AFFORD TO REST?
"They left Mignolet out of the earlier rounds for Brad Jones, while Flanagan, who's been a regular right-back of late, may be replaced by Kelly. Sterling might be left out for Moses, but they can't afford to rest the big names."

HOW MUCH DO THEY WANT IT?
"They're really hungry for this trophy. They know they're outsiders in the title race. The FA Cup can give Brendan Rodgers his first honour. Suarez craves more silverware. They want this badly."

HOW'S THEIR CUP PEDIGREE?
"They beat Arsenal in the 2001 final and have lifted the trophy seven times. They were beaten finalists two seasons ago but haven't been tested by Oldham or Bournemouth in this year's run."

WILL THEIR BIGGEST STARS PLAY?
"They left Luis Suarez on the bench against Oldham and only looked convincing when he came on. They'll want him and Daniel Sturridge firing. Coutinho and Gerrard will be needed to provide the ammo."

WHAT DOES THE FORM BOOK SAY?
"Liverpool's title aspirations were undermined by defeats against the three teams above them by the New Year. Their performances can be inconsistent and their defeat at the Emirates in November made it just one win in their last 12 meetings."

WHO WILL WIN? "Liverpool's extra hunger for this trophy and the form of the SAS attack could sway this their way. Giroud will be a threat and Özil will be a danger with his craft. But Suarez will have the last word with his movement, finishing power and never-say-die spirit." Liverpool.

BOXING EXCLUSIVE 1!

Chisora: 'You've got to leave a legacy!'

As he inches towards a world title shot, the heavyweight goes toe to toe with Nuts!

The pickpocket needed to hone his technique

Hi Dereck! How are you?
I'm OK, thanks, but I'm just looking for my passport. I've lost it. My New Year was amazing. I spent it with my family so it was good. You were supposed to interview me yesterday, you know.

Really? We thought it was today!
Nah, well, whatever.

Great! What's your big ambition for 2014?
Work hard and get a world title fight.

Tell us about your upcoming fight against American Kevin Johnson. You've had another opponent pull out...
Yeah, the Ukrainian guy [Andriy Rudenko] pulled out, which is a shame because he's a good fighter so you have to respect that.

Are you hoping to be more active this year?
That's the plan. I took four weeks off after my last fight and then was back on it ready for this fight. It doesn't matter who I'm fighting because heavyweight fighters are always dangerous.

Is it true you're hoping to fight Tyson Fury and then have a world title fight in Africa?
I'm not looking ahead of my next fight. I'll get him out the way first, then Tyson Fury's another fight.

He's beaten you previously, so that must be a fight you want again so you can avenge the loss, right?
I just said I'm not talking about that at the moment.

How's your preparation been for your next fight then?
I'm more prepared than ever. I'll see what happens in this fight first, then we can look at other options.

You used to wear a hat with "I'm the greatest" on it. Have you still got it?
Yeah, I love that hat! They were limited edition hats from New York.

When you're out, do people offer to fight you in the street?
No. People only fight when they've been disrespected or when they're not thinking straight. Most people just want to come up and say hello to me.

Do you drink much when you're not in training?
I don't drink much whether I'm in training or not. In fact, there are only two restaurants that I go to and that's about it, I don't really go anywhere else.

You're a Man United fan. How do you think they'll get on for the remainder of the season?
We just want the manager to settle in. We've already won every trophy out there so we just want the players to respect the new manager. Next year will be our year.

Do you think Robin Van Persie and Wayne Rooney will still be United players next season?
Footballers don't understand that they're rich, so the only thing left for them to do is to cement a legacy. That's worth more than money. If Rooney wants to go to Chelsea, let him go because they'll just sell him on when he's finished anyway. It's people like Giggs, Scholes, Terry and Lampard who are cementing their legacies.

Is that what you're aiming for?
Yeah, look at Muhammad Ali. He made enough money then wanted to do things to make sure he'd be remembered. You've got to make sure people remember you.

If Tyson Fury and David Haye had their fight, who do you think would have won?
It didn't happen so we'll never know.

DERECK VS NUTS MAN!

When Nuts man spoke to Dereck last November, he hung up on us!

INTERVIEWS: NICK WATKINS
PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES, ACTION IMAGES

If you were a betting man, who would you have backed?
It didn't happen so we'll never know.

Thanks for the chat, Dereck! Last time we spoke you said our questions p*ssed you off. Are you still mad at us?
I remember, but at least this time you're asking proper questions so I'm good. And I've just found my passport. So I'm in a good mood. Are we done now?

BOXING EXCLUSIVE 2!

Fury: 'I can beat anyone!'

Tyson talks about his upcoming fight!

Hi Tyson! Now, you've been out the ring for nearly a year, are you rusty?
No, I feel alright. I've been in the gym for a couple of weeks for this fight, which isn't normal. Ideally I'd have been in the gym for longer.

What do you know about your opponent, Joey Abell?
He's a big puncher. I'll just tag him before he tags me.

There's a lot of talk about fighting Dereck Chisora after this. Is that a fight you want?
Well, I've already beaten him, but it's good money and a world title eliminator.

Were you annoyed about David Haye cancelling?
It's no good crying over spilt milk. It wasn't meant to happen, but he didn't have the decency to tell me – I saw it on Sky Sports before anywhere else. Tosser.

Does Twitter ever get you into trouble?
Yeah, I've been given lots of fines by the Boxing Board of Control. If I'm going to get in trouble for speaking my mind, fk 'em.

Do you think you're the most dangerous fighter on the planet, as quoted recently?
Yeah. I don't think there's a man born who can beat me. Vitali Klitschko wouldn't have fought me – I'm too dangerous. I believe Wladimir [Klitschko] is a bum who I'll knock out when we fight. I'll show you how sh*t he really is. People say I'm sh*t but I'll show them just how sh*t I am when I beat all of them!

- Tyson Fury vs Joey Abell is live on BoxNation (Sky Ch.437/Virgin Ch.546) on Saturday 15 February. Visit www.boxnation.com to subscribe.

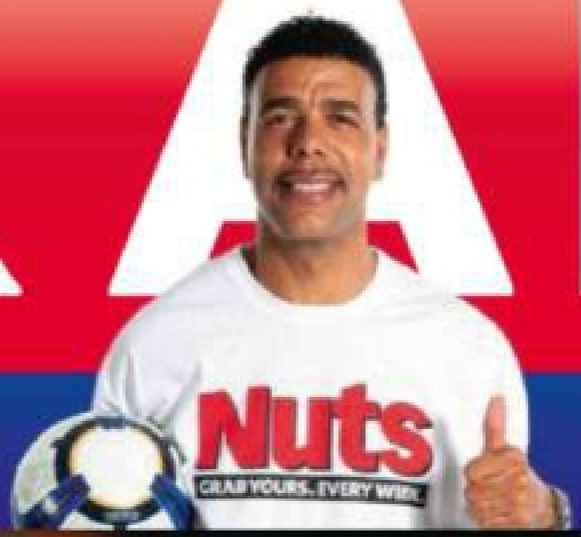
KAMMY!



He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

He was a great fan of Moyes' managerial style

Laudrup did not deserve the sack!

Firing a cup-winning manager is baffling!

I'M TRULY baffled by the dismissal of Michael Laudrup from Swansea. He brought them the Capital One Cup last season, not to mention a world-class player in the shape of Michu, for next to nothing. He did a good job.

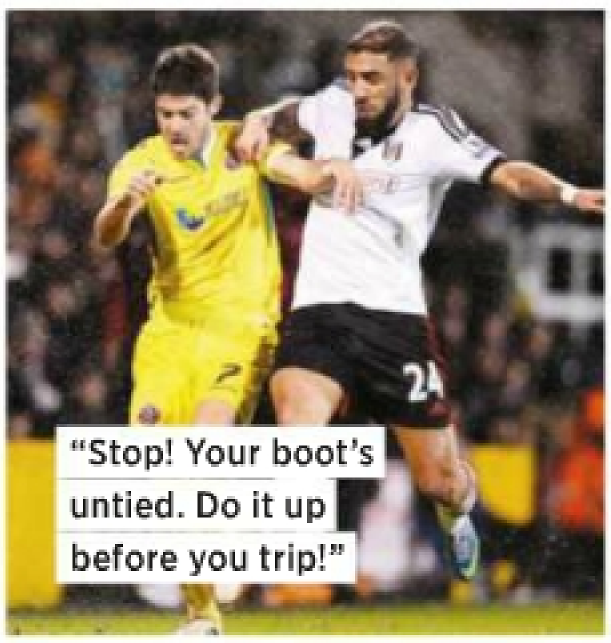
Now the rumour mongers are speculating – this player was unhappy, that player was arguing with him... This stuff never fails to amaze me when it's brought up as the reason behind a sacking – these are everyday occurrences!

He did a fantastic job at Swansea but unlike Brendan Rodgers and Roberto Martinez before him, he doesn't get to leave the club with his head held high – and he's the one who actually brought them some silverware.

Honestly, I don't get football sometimes!

PHOTOS: ACTION IMAGES

Fulham fans, it's time to be fearful!



"Stop! Your boot's untied. Do it up before you trip!"

IT'S TIME for Fulham fans to worry. A home defeat against Sheffield United in the FA Cup after a home thrashing by Southampton underlines that.

Martin Jol stated that Rene Meulensteen was his choice rather than the board's, and if this is true then I worry for him. He's brought in good football men in Ray Wilkins and Alan Curbishley to work with him and has been backed in the transfer market.

This is a situation where the board must publicly back their man, because as it stands, it's not looking good for him.

The puzzling mystery of Man United's 'transition'!

MAN UNITED'S Premier League season goes from bad to worse. I hear a lot of talk about this being a period of transition, but if Sir Alex Ferguson was in charge, with the same squad, would they be where they are now?

It's so strange. David Moyes will be hurting – one thing he has always done is make sure his sides are hard to beat, but Man United right now are just not a team to fear. How has that come to pass in such a short space of time? I'm not sure I'll ever be able to work it out.

He was a great fan of Laudrup's managerial style
